Jersey's Boss Hague Backs 'Ike'

36 Votes Promised General

'Bama Senator Mounts Wagon

(By Associated Press)

New Jersey's Democratic leader Frank Hague gave the Eisenhower - for - President bandwagon a mighty heave forward Sunday by hitching his state's 36 nominating votes to it.

Most, at least, of the New Jersey votes previously had been counted as in the bag for President Truman. Hague had been on record as a Truman supporter.

Sunday, however, the Democratic national committee vice chairman told a caucus of New Jersey party leaders:

"We feel that we have world leadership in General Eisenhower. We feel that we do not have world leadership either in the President or in the Republican candidate."

A three-minute ovation greeted his words. Then after Congressman Edward J. Hart and David T. Wilentz, former state attorney general, had added their endorsements, the caucus voted a recommendation that the retired army chief of staff be drafted.

A resolution pledged the 36 New Jersey votes to Eisenhower.

SPARKMAN, TOO

In Washington, Senator Sparkman (D.-Ala.) gave the Eisenhower drum another thumping by ticking off 10 reasons why he said it is the general's "duty" to accept the nomination.

He urged leaders of the Eisenhower draft to get a statement from the general before the "movement snowballs to a nomination," cautioning that the Democrats shouldn't try to name Eisenhower if he will refuse to run, if nominated.

Eisenhower, who previously flattened a similar GOP boom for him by saying he could not accept "nomination to high political office," gave no indication that he will speak out again.

In New York, a spokesman for Columbia university said General Eisenhower, now president of the university, was spending a "week end away from the office" and would not return until Tuesday.

The general will address Columbia summer students that afternoon, but there was no advance information to indicate what he will say.

FARLEY FOR TRUMAN

In New York, too, James A. Farley said he was "astounded that there are people who would question the integrity of Gen. Eisenhower's written word by advancing the idea that he would accept a draft."

The former Democratic national chairman, a delegate to the Philadelphia convention, issued his statement shortly after Hague had advocated the candidacy of Eisenhower.

"In my judgment," Farley added, "President Truman will be nominated in Philadelphia. Of course, I will vote for President Truman."

On the Republican side, Senator Reed of Kansas said in a separate interview:

"I am convinced Ike is not a candidate and will not be drafted, as he told us Republicans."

Reed observed that the time has come for the general to speak up again and say he cannot be drafted.

Truman Confident

ABOARD TRUMAN TRAIN ENROUTE TO BOLIVAR, Mo. —(AP)— A top aide said last night that President Truman is "absolutely convinced" that opposition to his nomination will collapse at the Democratic national convention.

He claimed that Mr. Truman has sufficient delegates to win on the first ballot.

Ohio U. Names Business Chief

ATHENS — (AP) — Paul H. Ballard, chairman of the Ohio house of representatives' finance committee the last 10 years; last night was appointed business manager of Ohio university. He recently resigned the finance committee chairmanship, effective July 10. Ballard will succeed George C. Parks, resigned.

British Air Crash Kills 39

By ALVIN J. STEINKOPF

LONDON—(AP)—Thirty-nine persons, including one American, were killed Sunday in the worst disaster of British civil aviation history—the collision of two four-engined transport planes in a rain-swept storm over suburban London.

The planes, an RAF transport and a Swedish airliner, crashed and burned with all aboard.

Twenty-five passengers and seven crew members were aboard the Swedish plane on a regular Sunday flight from Stockholm and Copenhagen. It tried in vain to turn back to Amsterdam for a safe landing.

Sir Edward Gent, British high commissioner for the Federation of Malaya, and six Royal Air Force crew members died in the flaming wreckage of the RAF York, developed since the war from bomber designs for civilian use. Sir Edward was en route home to make an anxiously-awaiting report on strife-torn Malaya.

COLLIDE IN CLOUD

The two planes collided with a deafening roar inside a cloud and then plummeted to earth. The Swedish plane landed beside a roadway and the RAF transport crashed into a wooded area a mile and a half away.

Scandinavian Airlines system headquarters in Copenhagen announced that Richard Boerger (address unknown), an American, was aboard its plane. The other passengers included Swiss, Norwegian, Swedes and Danes.

The RAF plane had been circling the airport for about an hour, waiting for a rift in low clouds, to come in for a landing when the collision occurred.

The Swedish plane had just messaged the airport it was turning back to Amsterdam for a landing when the crash occurred, apparently as it was in the act of turning back.

Both planes fell in clumps of woods. Crash crews collected a woman's handbag here and a bit of clothing there over a two-mile radius.

The ministry of civil aviation ordered an official investigation.

Four Escape Plane Crash

GALION — Four persons—one an 18-month-old baby — escaped from a private plane Sunday after it crashed and burned on a take off from Galion airport.

Mrs. Marian Phillips, 26, the pilot, and John Sisson, 30, a Columbus attorney who pulled her from the wreckage, received minor burns.

Ellis L. Phillips jr., 27, husband of the pilot, and their daughter, Elsie, 18 months, were unhurt. Phillips rescued the infant.

The Phillips family flew to Galion from Manhasset, Long Island, Saturday. Phillips is the son of Ellis L. Phillips chairman of the board of the Long Island Lighting company. His wife is the daughter of Leroy R. Grumman, president of Grumman Aircraft Engineering company.

Witnesses said one of the plane's wings struck a tree on the take off. The ship crashed from a low altitude.

The party was en route to Sandusky to visit Dr. Clyde T. Morris, retired Ohio State university professor.

State Alerted For Technician

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Emory Galloway, 43, chief technician for Ohio's mobile crime laboratory, has been missing for more than 56 hours, police said last night. Official reports of the case state Galloway "may have met with foul play."

Mrs. Galloway refused to comment on her husband's disappearance. The state highway patrol alerted officials throughout Ohio to be on the lookout for Galloway's automobile. It is a 1937 Chevrolet bearing license Y-6788.

Galloway is five feet 11 inches tall, weighs 160 pounds and was wearing a tan shirt and coat, blue pin-stripped trousers and brown shoes when last seen.

Heat Sends Mansfielders to Swimming Pool

City Marks Torrid Fourth

Mansfield observed one of its quietest Fourth of July holidays in a long time yesterday in typical "Fourth" weather.

It was hot. And the weatherman said it will be hot again today.

The mercury reached an official 88 Sunday afternoon at the Mansfield airport, but it was 91 at 5:30 p. m., at the Ohio Public Service company Longview substation. Other sections of the city reported readings in excess of 90.

All of Ohio sweltered in the heat, Cincinnati reporting a record 97 degrees for the summer. Charles P. Zitzas, 55, died in Cincinnati while waiting admission to a swimming pool. The heat was blamed for his death.

Richland county farmers said the heat was good for their corn and wheat, and gardeners welcomed it.

Swimming pools and lake resorts in the Mansfield area were thronged, and picnic spots marked up their biggest day of the season.

PORCH-SITTERS NUMEROUS

Mansfielders who didn't go visiting or to Lake Erie and nearby play centers sought the cool comfort of front porches and shady backyards.

There were few cars in the downtown area and the streets were deserted.

Mansfield youths did a pretty good job of obeying the no-fireworks ruling. Police got only one call about boys shooting firecrackers. It was from a Sloane avenue woman who said she heard firecrackers on Forest street.

There will be a fireworks display tonight at the Blue Goose show grounds where the Royal Crown shows are appearing this week. The show is sponsored by the American Veterans Committee.

MORE THAN KNEE HIGH—This corn in the fertile Clear Fork valley near Gatton's Rocks was considerably more than knee-high on the Fourth of July. There's a tradition among farmers that knee-high corn on the Fourth will make a bumper crop. This field of corn belongs to Grant Lennington, shown at the right, who planted hybrid seed May 3. Pictured with Lennington is Guy L. Taylor, county Triple-A chairman. Lennington, who is a pretty busy fellow, farms about 200 acres and works a shift at the Tappan Stove plant in Mansfield.

Planes Flock Into Berlin

224 Flights Made By U. S. Pilots

BULLETIN

BERLIN (Monday) — (AP) — Hints that Russians will protest alleged violations of the Berlin air regulations increased early today. The Russian-licensed news agency ADN said it had heard that the Soviet commander, Marshal Vassily D. Sokolovsky, had sent letters to Gen. Lucius D. Clay, the American commander, protesting the alleged violations. Clay's office said, however, no such letter was received there Sunday.

★

BERLIN —(AP)—Food-laden American and British planes flew into Berlin by the hundreds Sunday in answer to the Russian refusal to lift the 16-day ground blockade.

They had flown 224 flights during the last 24-hour period.

The Americans carried a record cargo of 819 tons Sunday. At noon an additional seven C-54 transport planes went into service, bringing the total number of C-54's on the run to 20. Still more of the giant, four-motor planes were en route to Frankfurt from the U. S.

Brig. Gen. Joseph Smith, commanding the air service, said he was "extremely pleased" with the efforts of both air and ground crews. He said although crews were averaging only four or five hours sleep each day, they were maintaining and flying the planes with maximum efficiency.

The RAF, which keeps a noon-to-noon box score, flew 161 flights up to midday, and also sent four giant Sunderland flying boats from England. The Sunderlands will fly daily from the Elbe river at Hamburg to the Havel, a western Berlin lake. The British hope to boost the Sunderland total to 10 planes.

Although the western powers were rapidly expanding the air lift, Berlin itself faced economic paralysis by the extended blockade. The stoppage of coal shipments from the west already had halved western Berlin's industrial output.

REDS QUARTERS ATTACKED

FRANKFURT, Germany—(AP)—Wiesbaden police reported Sunday an attempt to burn down the headquarters of the German communist party there. Police said an ignited can of gasoline was thrown against the party office.

Largest In City's History

2,200 See Morrow's Historical Pageant

MT. GILEAD—All roads led to Mt. Gilead last night as an estimated 2,200 persons witnessed a 12-act historical pageant commemorating Morrow county's centennial. It was believed to be the largest crowd to witness a single performance in Mt. Gilead's history.

Holiday-conscious visitors poured into the city throughout the day-long festivities.

City officials estimated the out-of-town influx peak was reached at 7 p. m., an hour before the drama, "Memories of Morrow County," was presented.

The pageant, a historical play staged elaborately on a specially-built 200-foot platform in the fairgrounds, traced one hundred years of Ohio history in Morrow county.

During the afternoon, banners flew and antique furniture crowded display places throughout this county seat of 2,500 persons.

Miss Ramona Graham, pretty Chesterville high school senior, was crowned queen of the centennial in special prologue ceremonies to the pageant.

Today the three-day cententenial celebration will end with a colorful five-mile long parade. Mansfield's 35-piece American Legion Post 16 Drum and Bugle Corps will lead the review at 1 p. m.

Gov. Thomas J. Herbert has been designated grand marshal. In a vehicle with the governor will be Mrs. Sarah Rhodebeck, 99, oldest living resident of Morrow.

Civic, fraternal and veterans' organizations from each community in the county have announced plans to participate in the review.

Judge Leland Rutherford, parade chairman, estimated that the parade will be the largest ever staged in the county. The line of march will extend from the entrance of the fairgrounds race track, around the oval and past the grandstand.

A special "caravan" of Morrow county residents over 75 years of age will be placed near the head of the parade and will review the marchers with the governor.

Floats and exhibits from Cardington, Chesterville, Edison, Iberia, Johnsville, Marengo, Fulton, Sparta and Mt. Gilead will be included.

NO COLLECTIVE FARMS

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia—(AP) — Communist Premier Antonin Zapotocky said Sunday that Russian collective farm systems would not be established in Czechoslovakia.

Ford First, He Learns

Acting Postmaster Tops Applicants

Acting Postmaster Curtis L. Ford said he has been informed by the Civil Service commission that he placed first in the examination for Mansfield postmaster.

Other than that, Ford said he did not know what his status was. He said he didn't know if his name had been presented to the U. S. Senate as a postmaster nominee. Postmaster nominations must be approved by the Senate.

Others who took the examination included George Blecker, John C. Schneider, Clifford O. Lister and George J. Mickan.

The examination consisted of rating applicants on the basis of their education, business or professional experience, general qualifications and suitability. The rating was done by field examiners.

French Planning 'Gratitude Train'

NEW YORK —(AP)— A French railroad representative was on his way to France today to make plans for a "gratitude train" to be sent to the United States in return for the "Friendship Train" sent by this country. Congress on June 20 passed a bill giving the French government permission to send such a train to this country without running into customs trouble.

Theater Owner Tops Money Earner List

WASHINGTON —(AP)— With paychecks totalling $985,300, movie theater owner Charles P. Skouras led the treasury's initial listing last night of America's top money earners of 1946.

Shapely Betty Grable showed the best cash figure for the women, $299,300, and ranked ninth on a list of some 900 persons whom corporations paid more than the $75,000 the U.S. pays its President.

Bing Crosby was the only other one of numerous movie stars on the list to land among the top ten money makers of corporation payrolls. He drew $325,000 from Paramount Pictures and finished eighth.

All these figures are before taxes—which take a whopping bite out of large incomes.

SECOND YEAR AT TOP

For Skouras, it was the second straight year in the No. 1 earnings spot. But this time his earnings were a cool $417,157 higher than last time, when he took in a mere $568,143.

Yet he fell short of the "million-a-year" mark that hasn't been cracked since movie producer Leo McCarey did it with $1,113,035 in the treasury's list for 1944.

The new list showed Skouras got $855,300 of his total from National Theatres Amusement company and the other $130,000 from the Fox West Coast Agency corporation. Skouras is president of both companies.

Others in the top ten earners included:

Movie Producer William Wyler, Samuel Godwyn Productions, Inc., $432,000.

Auto Maker Chares E. Wison, president of General Motors, Detroit, $337,198.

"Dime Store" magnate C. D. Deyo, president of the F. W. Woolworth company, $336,152.

Two July 4th Babies Born At Hospital

Roman candles will be more appropriate than birthday candles for two new residents of the Mansfield area who will celebrate their birthdays along with the birth of American Independence.

The youngsters, both boys, were born at Mansfield General hospital yesterday. The proud parents are Mr. and Mrs. William Stevens of Buckeye avenue and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Heslep of Lexington.

Israel Says 'No' to Plan Of Mediator

Continued Truce Remains Unlikely

TEL AVIV, Israel—(AP)—An authoritative government source said last night the government of Israel has decided to reject Count Folke Bernadotte's proposals to end the Arab-Jewish war in Palestine.

The question of renewed fighting in the Holy land appeared thus to hinge on the problem of whether the Arabs and Jews, both dissatisfied with the United Nations' mediator's peace plans, would continue their discussions after the four-week truce ends next Friday.

The well-informed source said Jewish officials were "astonished" at Bernadotte's reported proposal to turn Jerusalem over to the Arabs. (See story on page 2.) Any restriction on immigration to Israel also "cannot be countenanced," the source added.

STILL HOPEFUL

In Rhodes, Count Folke Bernadotte said, "I think the door still is open" in his efforts to settle the dispute over Palestine.

Under the count's suggestions for a permanent Palestine settlement, the Jews would have to give up their scattered settlements in the southern desert, as well as extensive projects for irrigation development and settlement. The Arabs would lose important towns and villages in western Galilee, including ancient Nazareth which is mostly christian Arab.

Mortars, cannon and machine guns belched fire sporadically for 12 hours in Jerusalem Sunday in the first major rupture of the United Nations cease-fire in the Holy city.

A Jewish spokesman said the Arabs began sniping from the walls of the old city in the area of the Damascus gate. Saturday the Arabs then opened up with mortars and two-pound cannon in the direction of Jewish lines near the Notre Dame hospice, the Jewish spokesman said.

Eight Jews were wounded, four seriously. One Arab woman, a patient in the Jewish-held Notre Dame hospice, was shot fatally while standing on the hospital balcony.

Water Flows But Ashland Chief Blushes

ASHLAND—Police Chief Harry Smith's water conservation warnings to Ashland's water-hungry populace backfired on him yesterday.

Urging the populace to be wary of starting a fire during Ashland's water famine, the chief was miffed to learn that the brand new police cruiser, parked in front of the fire house, was the city's first fire since a state of emergency was declared.

The fire, attributed to the car's faulty wiring, was quickly extinguished by an alert fireman. Still slightly redfaced, the chief, nevertheless, continued to urge extra fire caution during the tight water situation.

Water flowed through the city's pipelines Sunday without being shut off for the second day since inadequate filtering equipment forced periodic interruptions in water service while workmen cleared away the sludge that halted the flow.

100 Swimmers Save Boy's Life

COLUMBUS —(AP)— More than 100 swimmers were credited last night by the state highway patrol with saving six-year-old Jimmy Stroup from drowning in a quarry near the city water works plant. The swimmers formed a human chain around the spot where the boy was last seen, and moved forward until William Carles, 25, stepped on the submerged body. After artificial respiration, Jimmy's condition was reported as fair by hospital attendants.

Mansfield Man Dies In Traffic

Injuries Fatal To Joe Zanino

A 75-year-old Mansfield man died yesterday as the nation's holiday accident toll reached 224 at the two-thirds mark in the three-day holiday period.

The Mansfield victim was Joe Zanino, a retired Pennsylvania railroad worker, who was struck by a car late Saturday on West Fourth street road just outside the city. He died in General hospital early Sunday.

State highway patrolmen said he was struck by a car driven by Robert H. McCarthy of Galion as the elderly man stepped off a walk into the highway. Mr. Zanino lived at the Ludwig rest home near the scene of the accident.

Coroner D. C. Lavender said he suffered a concussion, chest and kidney injuries and fractures of both legs. Patrolmen are investigating the accident.

'48 TOLL UP TO 7

Mr. Zanino's death brought the Richland county traffic toll for the year to seven as compared with 10 at this time last year.

Mr. Zanino, who was born in Pomondo, Italy, Oct. 1, 1873, was retired as a railroad worker in 1934 after an accident which resulted in an ankle injury.

The Jones Memorial where the body was taken, reported Mr. Zanino had no known relatives here. His wife had died years ago and he has a son in Italy.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed last night.

Traffic accidents accounted for 146 of the 182 violent deaths reported to last night. There were 55 drownings, one death in a fireworks accident and 22 from miscellaneous causes.

The National Safety council has predicted a total of 235 traffic deaths. Last year 546 persons died violently during the Fourth of July period, including 264 traffic, 114 drownings, five fireworks and 163 miscellaneous.

Ohio counted 16 accidental deaths, 12 in traffic mishaps. The traffic fatalities included:

Ceasar Rossetti, 56, of Folconer, N. Y.; Royal Maloney, about 50, of Toledo; Carl Doughman, 27, of Morrow; Leslie Kay Pantone, 2, of Maple Heights; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carr, both 64, of Fairmont, W. Va.; Arthur McCoy, 28, of Elyria; Miss Clare McGregor, 63, of Waupaca, Wis.; Susan Huston, 16 months, of Columbus; City Patrolman Harold Stevens, 52, and Philip Doss, 27, both of Toledo.

Bruce Carl Benedict, 4, of Cleveland, was drowned in the Maumee river at Toledo. Three deaths by fire were reported. The victims were Russell Stapleton, 25, of Columbus; Walter Bietrowski, 24, of Cleveland, and Sharon Ilene Swartz, 4, Upper Sandusky.

President Goes West

ABOARD TRUMAN TRAIN EN ROUTE TO BOLIVAR, Mo.—(AP) —A smiling President Truman took a respite Sunday from the Democratic political warfare to travel to his native Missouri to honor a South American hero.

He spent Independence day aboard his bullet-proof private railroad car with President Romundo Gallegos of Venezuela and other South American leaders en route to Bolivar.

There Mr. Truman will accept, in behalf of the American people, a statue of Simon Bolivar, the great South American patriot who rescued Venezuela and other Latin American countries from Spanish rule.

President Gallegos will speak at 1:30 p. m. (Mansfield time) today. President Truman 15 minutes later.

Mr. Truman is expected to address a gathering at Springfield, Mo., on the return trip, after Gallegos leaves the train to fly to New York.

Best's Conviction Vindicates His Warnings to U. S. About Russia

BOSTON—The conviction of Robert Best on a charge of treason and his sentence to prison for the rest of his life, he being now 52, vindicates his contention that the government of his own country, the United States, is still hacking the corpse of a dead enemy and indifferent to the menace of a live one.

Best was a derelict loafer who had served in the American army in the first world war and, like a few thousand other dissolute and shameless bums of the A.E.F., hung around Europe until it was too late to come home.

A lot of them became gigolos and picked up the occupational diseases of the trade.

For years they infested the Ritz and Harry's so-called New York bar in Paris—boozy tramps cadging drinks, francs and old clothes from tourists. A few, and best among them, drifted off to haunts unlikely for Americans and became harmless barflies, coming faintly to life now and again to pester the consuls with little personal problems.

Best holed up in Vienna and for a time at least served as a correspondent for the United Press, covering unimportant news. When anything was doing that merited competent coverage, he was relieved by a staff man. However, by virtue of his credentials and by years of residence, he developed the acquaintance and, doubtless the contempt, of the Austrians, including the Nazis.

Best hated the communists and he shared and argued Hitler's belief that Jewishness and communism were indistinguishable. This made him unpopular with most American journalists who happened that way and, of course, gave him a bad reputation with the American legation. In Roosevelt's time there was a distinct partiality to communism, as strong as the official American aversion to Hitler and his national socialism.

Many of the American correspondents stationed in Europe, a pretentious lot on the whole, strutting and posing as statesmen and intimates of the presidential circle, were pro-communist because Hitler was anti-communist. Some actually believed in communism.

Lenin and Stalin had exterminated more human beings than Hitler was to slaughter in his lethal chambers in the war that was yet to come, but this colossal horror was condoned on the erroneous ground that, however bad their manners were in this, the Russian monsters never killed a man for his religious beliefs.

Mass murder for other reasons was something like third-degree manslaughter by comparison.

However false and hateful Best's belief in Hitler's suspicion of the Jews, it was not treason under American law nor even disorderly conduct. It was dangerous, however, as many individuals were to learn in the notorious treason cases in Washington which ended when the unfortunate judge died of fatigue. They never were brought to court again because the department of justice knew there was no treason present, but in time to come the war administration will have to answer for these persecutions.

Heartbeats of Newborn Nation Recorded By Pen of Jefferson

THOMAS JEFFERSON, AMERICAN—Jefferson's pen recorded the heartbeats of a newborn nation. The Declaration of Independence was more than a brilliant political document, more than a ringing battle-cry against tyranny. It was a classic affirmation of the Dignity of Man. As an expression of lofty idealism and inspiring courage, the deathless document has never been surpassed. It provided the words for the spirit of liberty.

Thomas Jefferson believed a nation's strength cannot be measured solely by the abundance of its material wealth—the freedom of its human resources was far more valuable. He loved liberty and lived it. To build a nation where the human spirit could find fulfillment—that was his dream. Jefferson had the Spirit of '76 long before that date—and he devoted his life to upholding it.

Keenly aware that liberty was not a gift but a victory we must continually strive to preserve, Jefferson never ceased trying to extend its benefits. . . . Although the nation proclaimed its freedom in 1776, it wasn't until a decade later that a vital cornerstone of that freedom was erected—when the Virginia legislature passed Jefferson's Ordinance of Religious Freedom.

Spearheading the struggle for religious liberty was not an easy task. Jefferson fought for the passage of his Ordinance for 7 years.

★

The ABCs of civil liberties were illustrated by Jefferson: Suppose 20 individuals met in a country never before inhabited. Each individual was a "sovereign in his own natural right." However, by living in contact with each other each would be subject to the encroachment of his sovereignty by the others. Therefore, in order to maintain their own rights, they had to agree to preserve and protect the rights of all. . . . That is the meaning of civil liberty.

★

The Presidency did not tempt Jefferson. Nevertheless, his devotion to public service overcame his qualms about the tortuous burdens every Chief Executive must shoulder.

Shortly before he was elected President he cannily noted: "I know well that no man will ever bring out of that office the reputation which carries him into it!"

He once wrote: "July 4th should forever refresh our recollections of our rights and our undiminished devotion to them."

Remembering Jefferson's words is one of the best ways to recall our glorious heritage. In a few eloquent sentences he gave us the core of Americanism: "We hold these truths to be self-evident; that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. That, to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that, whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or abolish it, and to institute a new government, laying its foundations on such principles, and organizing its power in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness."

U. S. Presses 'Offensive' On Russia

Watches Yugoslavia For Chance to Act

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The United States, in cooperation with Britain and France, is pressing its diplomatic offensive against Russia on two fronts this holiday week end. It is watching closely developments on a third to determine whether the Yugoslav crisis affords any opportunity for action.

Here are the major developments:

1. American officials said that following the failure of the occupation commanders in Berlin Saturday to break the Russian blockade of the city, there was no doubt that the United States, Britain and France would make direct demands on Moscow to end the tieup.

A note was expected to be delivered to the Soviet government within a matter of hours. This was to be not only a demand but a grave warning to the Russians about the seriousness of their actions at Berlin.

2. The state department was reported by foreign diplomatic informants here to have arranged a meeting on Tuesday with the ambassadors of Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. The plan is said to be to discuss measures aimed at eventually providing American military support for the western European bloc. State department officials flatly declined to confirm or deny the conference. They did say that Secretary of State Marshall was scheduled not to be in his office on Tuesday, so that it appeared likely that the session would be held with Undersecretary of State Lovett.

DECIDE TO SIT TIGHT

3. The communist crisis over Yugoslavia had produced in the state department by the week end a decision on temporary policy toward the crack in communist harmony in Eastern Europe. The decision was to sit tight and see what happens before offering any help to Marshal Tito in his back-to-the-wall stand against domination by the Soviet Union. In fact, it seemed almost certain that if any western power hand was to be stretched out to Tito he would have to make the initial bid for help and even if he did so his overtures would be studied most cautiously.

State department officials have been very impressed with one fact about Tito's conduct. That is that the Yugoslav communist party agencies under its control have repeatedly made the claim that they want to remain communists and want to remain friendly with Moscow.

Linked with this is the fact that for a week now Tito's government has withheld approval of a financial settlement with the United States which would have netted $30,000,000 through the unfreezing of Yugoslavia's wartime funds in this country.

There is a tentative conclusion among officials here that if and when Tito turns to the west it will be only after Moscow has finally convinced him of a ruthless determination to force him out and then his gesture would probably be one of desperation rather than any sincere desire to cooperate in the interest of his own country.

450 Attend Opening Services In Park

By NITA BRANSON

"If the American people had the conviction and courage of their forefathers, there would be no communism here no matter how many Russians came to this country," Rev. Charles L. Shook told the 450 who gathered in South park last night for the first of the open-air vesper services.

Under cloud-flecked skies and among the tall shade trees of the park, worshippers gathered to hear Rev. Shook speak on "Slavery or Freedom, Which?" a theme in keeping with Independence Day. The services were in charge of the First United Presbyterian church, of which Rev. Shook is pastor.

"Americans are open to see and to hear communism because they are not standing with God," Rev. Shook continued. "If America forgets God, there can be only one result. This nation shall surely perish.

"Men and women of America today need the same stuff of which our forefathers were made. Because of their courage and convictions about civil and religious liberty, they stayed in America and because they did stay, you and I are here today

"They instilled in their children those same principles and their descendants wrote the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution. Those principles of our forefathers were derived from the word of God. It has been said that the Bible made New England and that New England made America.

CALLS LAW LIBERTY

"What is that freedom and liberty which to them meant more than life? It is fulfilling the purpose of one's existence. Liberty and law are not contrary, one to the other; law can be a liberty.

"Take man out of his element and he shall surely die. That's the trouble with America, with the world today. Man has been taken out of his element. Adam and Eve took themselves out of their element and they knew death. They destroyed the perfect law of God.

"We today, apart from Christ, are not living in our natural element of liberty and there is death and destruction.

"We are facing today a people who no longer believe in the teachings of the Bible," Rev. Shook said. "If the Bible goes, so must go our form of government. If it does go, then it is because the people have failed to believe."

Music last night was provided on the small electric organ by Mrs W W Webb organist of the church, and by Mrs. Isabelle Conant of Ashland, who sang a solo, "Lead Kindly Light." The choir from the United Presbyterian church led the music.

429 Join Reading Club

Membership Open Until July 15

Children may still join the summer reading club, Miss Eva Leonard, children's librarian at the Mansfield Public library, has announced. Membership will remain open until July 15.

The club is more than a month old. It has 429 members, 213 in the lower grades and 216 in the upper grades. Children in the first four grades of school may read any 10 books they wish. Their parents sign a form card saying that each book has been read. After the 10 books are read, the child's name goes on a chart and he gets a star for each additional book he reads.

Children above the fourth grade who write 10 acceptable book reports get a certificate at the end of the summer. When a child earns three certificates in three different summers, he is awarded a book.

Richard Elrod of West Fifth street school leads the readers in the lower grade group with 49 books completed so far. He is the grandson of Mrs. Lelia Elrod of 738 Bowman street. Ten other children in this group have read the required 10 books and earned stars.

Eleanor Zara of St. Peter's school has read 25 books, the most anyone has read in the older group. Eleanor is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Zara of 153 Main street.

St. Peter's school has the most children enrolled in the reading club with 24 in the lower grades and 91 in the upper. Carpenter school is second with 44 in the lower grades and 17 in the upper.

Enrollment in the other schools follows: Bowman, lower grades, 20; upper, 11; Brinkerhoff, lower grades, 26, upper, 12; Bushnell, lower grades, 1, upper, 3; Hedges, lower grades, 18, upper, 7; Prospect, lower grades, 30 upper, 10; West Fifth, lower grades, 13, upper, 11; Western avenue, lower grades, 10, upper, 16; Woodland, lower grades, 10, upper, 11; Johnny Appleseed, upper grades, 5, John Simpson, upper grades, 11; county schools, lower grades, 6, upper, 7.

Up and Down the Street . . .

VISITORS—

Mansfielders are seeing a lot of strange auto license plates on the city's streets. A boom year in motor travel is sending cars from every state in the union and some foreign countries through the city over U.S. Routes 30 and 42. Sometimes early in the morning it's possible to see five or six states represented on license plates within a block. The city's hotels are favorite stopping places for east-west travelers who are usually on their way early in the morning.

READY FOR SWIM—

The annual summer swimming classes sponsored by the Red Cross will start Tuesday morning when the first group of youngsters, in the beginners' class get their initial lesson in swimming. Since classes will be at the Liberty park pool, Gerald Coron, water safety director, said there have been a few cancellations because of transportation difficulties. But everyone has cooperated in solving that problem bze added. Neighborhood mothers are combining forces to get their children out to the pool. So far, registrations total nearly 600.

HE JUST WONDERED—

Overheard in an elevator: A woman was telling how her 14-year-old son was helping her by ironing some pillow cases. After a short while the boy turned to her, she said, and asked, "Mom, will I have to do this when I get married?"

SEEN A PLATFORM?

Lost: One church platform needed for vesper services at South park. Last night when it came time to start the first of the summer open air services at the park, the platform could not be found. Rev. Charles L. Shook, last night's speaker, announced that the platform was somewhere in the park because Rev. Carveth P. Mitchell, chairman of the committee from the Richland County Ministerial association which sponsors the services, said it had been erected. But last night the question was "Where?" However, Mansfield ministers have a week to search the South park area and Rev. Mitchell assured the worshippers last night that the platform would be found by next Sunday evening.

Chatter . . .

Pedestrians near the Southern hotel stopping to look at a strange, monkey-like creature waving from a car window. The mysterious "animal" turned out to be a mitt of the type used in Punch and Judy shows. Operating it was a tiny girl who was hidden in the rear seat. She looked out from time to time to see if she had an audience.

Dozens of Mansfielders driving to the picturesque Franklin church north of the city Saturday night to dine on home-made ice cream and chicken sandwiches at the annual church social. It was estimated that more than 1,000 attended the festival, one of the most successful ever held at the church.

Driver Says Guard Gates Weren't Down

Hollis Moorhead, 501 Lexington avenue, told police that the car he was driving narrowly missed being struck by a fast Pennsylvania passenger train early yesterday at the East Fourth street crossing because, he contended, the crossing gates had not been lowered.

He said he heard the train whistle and saw the train approaching as he drove onto the tracks. Moorhead told police he stopped his car and backed up, just in time to avoid being struck.

Police reported that the watchman, Joe Cantrell, said he was having trouble with the gates. Later, the watchman lowered the gates which appeared to be working all right, police said

Measure Due For Action

Fund Requests Show Increase

Consideration of the 1949 budget for the city departments that draw their funds from local tax collections is the leading item on city council's agenda tomorrow night.

The budget, including the police and fire pensions and public recreation levies, totals $725,803. It is $149,006 greater than the 1948 budget passed last July, but is within $10,000 of the total of the 1958 appropriation bill and supplemental appropriations made so far this year.

Actually, the city plans to spend about the same amount of money next year as it spent this year.

After the budget is approved by council as a whole, it will be sent to the county budget commission, made up of the county auditor, treasurer and prosecutor who will study it, possibly revise it, and return the approved total to the city.

Since the present local real estate taxation is at the legal limit, the amount requested usually is close to the maximum that the city can expect to get. The requests can be sliced by the budget commission, but the city can appeal to the state if it feels that it has been unjustly treated.

BOND MEASURE UP

The other major item on the council docket tomorrow will be a bill providing for the issuance of $48,000 worth of bonds in anticipation of the collection of special assessments on 15 street improvement jobs.

The $48,000 represents the amount of money owed by persons who chose to pay on the installment plan rather than on a cash basis.

The projects include sanitary sewers on Burton avenue, Burns street, Grant street, Reform street and Shady Lane; resurfacing of Burnese avenue, North Glenn avenue, Grace street (east and west of Central avenue), and North Main street; paving of Massa avenue, Parkview street and Crescent road; and grading of Fourth avenue and Muth road.

Insured List Grows

Three million more workers in the United States are now permanently insured for old-age and survivors insurance than were insured a year ago, according to Edward P. Blonston, manager of the Mansfield Social Security Administration office.

The great majority of the 2,000,000 working women and 9,500,000 working men who are permanently insured are in the group under 56 years of age. More than 45,000,000 workers are so insured that if they were to die at this time, their dependents would be entitled to Social Security benefits.

Blonston outlined a quick way to determine the existence of a permanently insured status. "Count the time between Jan. 1, 1937, and your 65th birthday. As soon as you've worked in Social Security jobs one-half this time, or for 40 quarters, you have a paid-up policy or a permanently insured status."

Once this permanent status is reached, a person need not work any more to receive benefits when he dies. However, Blonston emphasized that the longer a person works the greater will be the amount of the insurance benefit.

E. H. Zerby Dies at 49

Earl H. Zerby, 49, former Mansfielder and conductor of an orchestra for a number of years, died Saturday night in People's hospital after a brief illness.

He was born in Mansfield and spent most of his life here. He went to Columbus five years ago.

Services will be held Tuesday at 3 p. m., at the Wappner funeral home with Rev. O. W. Aughhaugh of the First Lutheran church in charge. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home.

Surviving are Mr. Zerby's father, Raymond H.; a brother, Dean L., and one sister, Mrs. B. H. Hoagland, all of Mansfield.

Legion Qualifies for District Meet

TEE TIME

By Charley Stine

(News-Journal Sports Writer)

Whether or not Pete Thoma gets a berth in the National Public Links tournament, he won many admirers in the qualifier at Cleveland last Sunday.

The husky dark-haired athlete put on a long-distance clouting exhibition that had some of the veteran campaigners gasping. He was easily the longest driver there and missed a qualifying berth only through a series of bad breaks.

He finished as second alternate and will go to the National in Atlanta—July 19-24—only if two others drop out. Pete tied with the veteran Ralph Schneider for first alternate but lost out in the second extra hole.

★

Only a "loose interpretation" of the rules kept Thoma from being an out-and-out qualifier according to the six other Mansfielders who competed over Cleveland's Seneca course.

Advance dope on the tournament had informed the contestants not to bring caddies—that they would be furnished. When the group reported in, however, they were told that there never had been caddies around Seneca and that they would have to tote their own nags over the entire 36-hole route.

The Cleveland golfers — from whose ranks came the top ten finishers—had known of the absence of caddies and brought their own.

The Mansfield group, with Pete Zeides as spokesman, also protested against the fact that among the Cleveland linksmen the better golfers were paired together whereas the locals were forced to play with poorer scorers—a condition which usually adds a few strokes to everyone's score.

Regardless of the adverse conditions Pete fired one eagle, four birdies, 18 pars and 13 bogies over the 36-hole distance. He gave notice as a man to be watched when he drove onto the green on the 334-yard first hole. His putt dropped for the eagle.

Me birdied the tricky 572-yard 15th hole by sheer power. Other contestants in the tournament played the hole with a drive, a chip to the edge of a lake and then another wood over the water. Pete pounded his initial drive so far he eliminated the chip and sailed far over the water with his second swing.

SMALL CHIPS — Quite a few Mansfielders are expected to be among galleryites at the Columbus Open which plays Thursday through next Sunday . . . Dale Rose, local amateur who won an alternate position in the qualifier, will not know until Monday whether or not he will get a chance to compete . . . According to reports, if the Columbus joust is handled as good as the Inverness in Toledo, it will be a dandy . . . Even amateur photographers were given a break at the Inverness . . . In a pre-tourney clinic a space was roped off for shutterbugs while the big-name pros went through illustrative shots.

Bob Gordon fired an eagle on the 353-yard second hole at Westbrook in a practice round recently. Playing with Jerry King and Jim DeBerry, Gordon holed out with a seven-iron from 130 yards back . . . Another eagle on a tough hole by Stanley Richardson on the 359-yard 13th at Possum Run.

A number of Moose league golfers are expected to enter the Ohio Moose tourney, to be held July 24 at Youngstown Mill Creek club . . . Medal play will be in effect and entry deadline has been set for July 24.

5 Home Runs Spice Tilt As Shiloh Wins

SHILOH — In a game spiced by five home-run blasts, Shiloh halted the Mansfield T and E Tavern baseball team in 11 innings here yesterday afternoon, 11 to 10.

Dawson's second four-master in the eleventh frame gave the contest to Shiloh. Catcher Joe Atton of the Taverns had sent the game into extra chapters with a circuit clout in the top of the ninth.

Jerry Novacic of the Mansfield aggregation poled a home run and two singles while his mate Les Beer garnered a homer and a one-base blow.

Manager Joe Siwek plans to send his ace, Novacic, against the Butler Merchants in a single game today at Liberty park in Mansfield at 2:30 p. m. The Taverns will be seeking their eighth victory of the campaign.

Eleven Golfers Take Prizes In Westbrook Meet

Eleven golfers cut into the big prize melon yesterday at Westbrook country club.

Shooting the best golf of the day was Vic Salter who put together rounds of 35 and 34 for a 69 in Class A. Marion Ward won the low net award with a 75-8—67. In Class B, Sam Heringhaus had a 85 while the low net winner was Mike Myers with 92-22—70.

E. S. Miller with 96 and Denny Schaaf, 95-27—68, were the Class C victors.

Putting only 26 times, E. H. Brown won the low putt contest while Dick Koozer was the top driver with a belt of 285 yards off No. 10 tee. Closest approach awards went to Howard Hosler, Tubby Jones and John Anderson.

Westbrook golfers today will compete in a two-ball mixed foursome while blind bogies are scheduled at Coolridge and Possum Run.

Ancient Pitching Arms Win 2 Tilts

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— The ancient pitching arms of Rip Sewell and Elmer Riddle put Pittsburgh into second place yesterday as the Pirates swept a twin bill from the Chicago Cubs, 5 to 1, and 6 to 2.

Riddle allowed the Cubs only four hits in the nightcap. Sewell took credit for the opener. Ralph Kiner got his 20th home run of the season with one aboard in the first inning of the second game.

Play Galion Nine Today For Crown

GALION — The Mansfield American Legion junior baseball team advanced to the finals of the southern sectional tournament here yesterday afternoon by defeating Loudonville, 7 to 6.

Mansfield will meet Galion at 2 p. m. today in the finals of the double- - elimination tournament. Both teams have qualified for the district 5 double - elimination meet which opens next Saturday at Bellevue. Mansfield had beaten Galion Saturday, 5 to 2.

UNDEFEATED CLUB

The baseballers of Dewey Durant are undefeated nn tournament competition while Galion lost only to the Mansfield team. The latter outfit has won nine straight games this season.

However, Mansfield was forced to come from far behind to keep its record unblemished. No. 3 pitcher Sparkie Watts was continuously in trouble and gave up two runs in the first inning and was unable to withstand the Loudonville fourth inning assault which netted four runs and gave the latter club a 6-to-2 lead.

Lou Gregorio was rushed to the rescue and finally retired the side in the fourth. The Legion ace was invincible after that and struck out 12 in 5 1-3 innings. He drove in two of the three Mansfield runs with a triple in the fifth.

WIN IN NINTH

The tying run came in the sixth on Buck McKeever's long home run. Mansfield picked up the winning run in the bottom half of the ninth when Gene Riblet walked, stole second and came home on a wild throw. Two were out when the winning run counted.

Mike Gruber, Mansfield third-sacker, had two singles and a double.

Errors Do It

LOUISVILLE, Ky. —(AP)— The big noise here yesterday was the Louisville infield—two men especially—which popped and cracked for four errors, all figuring in the Indianapolis scoring as the Hoosiers defeated the Colonels, 5-3. Four of the Indianapolis runs were unearned.

SHATTERS RECORD—One-tenth of second is chipped off world's 400-meter run record by Herb McKenley of Jamaica, British West Indies, in trial heat of National AAU track and field championships in Marquette university stadium at Milwaukee. McKenley's time was 45.9.

Shelly Swank Pitches Grays To 4-to-0 Win

Shelly Swank, the ex-Senior high second baseman, pitched the Mansfield Grays to a 4-to-0 victory in the second games of a double-header yesterday with the Canton Yale Clothes at Blue Goose field.

Canton had beaten Don Hardy, 3 to 0, in the first games as the Grays left 11 men stranded. Hardy allowed only eight safeties.

The twin-bill was the second of a series of benefits for the family of the late Foster Burggraf. The first game Friday netted $200. However, the Grays officials did not know the proceeds of the games with Canton last night at 7:30 p. m.

FINAL BENEFIT

Final benefit game will be played this afternoon when the Grays entertain Lakemore Army-Navy at Blue Goose. Jack Hammett, the former Ohio State pitcher will be on the mound for the Grays today with Johnny Heckert behind the platter.

Heckert's double down the left field line clinched the second game for the Grays in the second heat. Swank gave up only three hits, walked none and struck out five.

Indians First On July Four

ST. LOUIS — (AP) — Rain postponed a scheduled double header between the St. Louis Browns and the Cleveland Indians yesterday but a Philadelphia defeat by Boston enabled the Tribe to observe the Fourth of July in first place.

The Indians left for Cleveland to open an eight-game home stand starting with Detroit today. Legend has it that the team in first place on the Fourth will win the pennant.

In the first game Manager Lou Boudreau will send Bob Lemon to the mound against the Tigers he defeated by hurling a no-hitter last Wednesday night in Detroit. Bob Muncrief or Sam Zoldak will pitch in the second game for Cleveland.

White Sox Split With Detroiters

CHICAGO —(AP)— The Chicago White Sox exploded 18 hits for 33 total bases in walloping Detroit, 12-1, in the second game of a double-header before 23,128 persons here yesterday. They lost the opener, 6-3.

Tony Lupien paced the Chicago clouting with a triple and three singles in five times at bat as Pat Seerey and Cass Michaels belted home runs. Allen Gettel breezed to his second White Sox triumph on a yield of eight hits.

Harrison, Hogan Tie For Title In Motor City Open

DETROIT —(AP)— Tall Dutch Harrison and tiny Ben Hogan were all locked up in a tie today for the $2,600 top prize of the Motor City Open Golf championship with 72 holes of 275, nine shots under par.

Hogan, who closed with his second straight 66, and Harrison, who finished with a four under par 67, will play it off over 18 holes today.

Harrison, 38-year-old "Arkansas Traveler" from Albuquerque, N. M., who was tied with Bobby Locke of South Africa for the three-quarters lead, came home first with his 35-32—67, finishing with six straight one putt greens for his 275.

While Harrison was sweating it out in the locker room, Hogan went to work to catch him, firing five birdies and 13 pars for his five-under-par 66, missing a 22-foot putt on the 18th green that would have returned him the winner yesterday.

Defeat Saints

ST. PAUL —(AP)— Minneapolis won its first American association game in St. Paul this season, beating the Saints 9-5 yesterday. Red Hardy, who relieved starter Otie Clark in the second inning, received credit for the victory.

Sauer Socks Two as Reds, Cards Divide

CINCINNATI—(AP)—Harry (the Cat) Brecheen broke a St. Louis Cardinal losing streak Sunday by setting the Cincinnati Reds down 8-1 in the nightcap of an Independence day doubleheader.

The Reds, with Johnny Wyrostek and Hank Sauer providing the fireworks, won the first game 8-6.

Sauer spoiled Brecheen's bid for a shutout in the second with his 24th home run. Wyrostek homered twice and Sauer once in the first game as Ewell Blackwell chalked up his fifth victory.

Working before a Fourth of July crowd of 29,564 that sweltered under 97 degree heat, The Cat was in trouble only in the first inning. He held the Reds powerless after that until Sauer's ninth inning homer. He struck out seven while granting only one walk.

The Cardinals started hot in the first game, getting three runs in their half of the first. The Reds tied the score in their half, however, as Sauer hit his 23rd homer with Wyrostek and Hatton on base.

Blackwell struck out five and walked five. He was relieved in the ninth by Peterson who gave way a moment later to Harry Gumbert and retired the only batter he faced.

Wyrostek's homers were his 10th and 11th of the season.

Shelby Blues Win In 12th

SHELBY — The Shelby Blues pushed across one run in the last of the 12th to defeat the Shelby Settlement baseball team, 6 to 5, here yesterday afternoon.

Higgins singled, Zeiters was safe on a fielder's choice and Jake Gates' double accounted for the winning run. Paul Hartz pitched the first 11 innings for the Blues while Herb Hart came in the last frame to receive credit for the win.

The longest hit was a triple by Don Fought.

Springfield Southpaw Pitches No-Hit Game

PORTSMOUTH —(AP)— Claude Hagy, Springfield southpaw, turned in the Ohio Indiana baseball league's first no-hit, no-run game of the season yesterday when he stopped Portsmouth in the seven-inning second game of a doubleheader, 11-0.

Portsmouth won the nine-inning opener, 7-3.

Boston Goes Wild, Gets 14 In Seventh

BOSTON—(AP)—With a modern major league record-matching outburst of 14 runs in a single inning, the Boston Red Sox broke a 5-5 tie in the seventh to gain a hollow 19-5 win over the Philadelphia Athletics yesterday before a stunned 24,363 crowd.

Twelve of those markers were against 23-year-old relief Pitcher Charlie Harris, who retired only one of the 13 batters who faced him during that horrible baseball nightmare.

Starter Carl Scheib had a 3-2 lead when the Red Sox came to bat in the sixth and when the latter pulled into 5-3 lead with two out, the hapless Harris took over and retired Johnny Pesky.

Thereupon Eddie Joost homered with Harris aboard to pull the Athletics into a tie in their side of the seventh to set the stage for the Bosox' matching of the single inning modern scoring record set by the New York Yankees in July, 1920, and first equalled by the Chicago Cubs on Aug. 5, 1922.

ALL-TIME MARK

The all-time record for runs per inning is 18, made by the Chicago Cubs back in 1883.

And while the Red Sox were so doing, 11 of them faced Harris before he could get one of them out—Stan Spence on a fly to center. Then Junior Stephens singled and Bobby Doerr walked before Manager Connie Mack relented and pulled in Bill McCahan from the bullpen.

Harris was responsible for 12 runs on six hits, five bases on balls and one batter reaching first on a fielder's choice with everybody safe in a third of an inning.

McCahan came in with two runners aboard and after they scored, the Sockers scored twice against him on three hits before Ted Williams, who had been up twice before in that inning and walked, finally ended the ludicrous burlesque by grounding into the shifted infield.

MAJESKI HOMERS

The first three Philadelphia tallies were the result of Hank Majeski's four-bagger with two on base in the sixth. Doerr provided the first Boston run with his 10th homer in the second.

It was obvious that Harris' teammates were distressed by his humiliation. That youngster, however, declined to comment but the venerable Connie Mack explained it occurred because his club came here for a three-game series with only eight pitchers and must play a double header with the Washington Senators today. Five of Mack's available hurlers were used here.

New Yorkers Defeat Nats In 8th, 6-5

NEW YORK — (AP) — Larry Berra's fly ball enabled Phil Rizzuto to score from third after the catch in the eighth inning yesterday with the run that gave the New York Yankees a 6-5 victory over the Washington Senators.

The victory, credited to relief pitcher Randy Gumpert, his first decision of the season, gave the Yanks the series, two to one, and moved them to within a half game of the Philadelphia Athletics.

After the Senators drew even at 5-all on Early Wynn's triple and Eddie Yost's single off Gumpert in the eighth, the Bombers bounced back in their half to score the deciding marker.

Rizzuto walked, went to third on Tommy Henrich's pop double to left and just beat Eddie Stewart's throw home after the Senators' right-fielder took Berra's short fly.

Wynn, seeking his eighth victory, went the route for the Senators but was victimized by his mates' porous defense, which cost him two unearned runs.

Pros to Battle Columbus Course

By FRITZ HOWELL

(Ohio AP Sports Editor)

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Having torn private courses apart on the year's tour, America's top-flight golf professionals get a chance next weekend to battle par over a municipal public links layout.

The occasion is the third annual $10,000 Columbus open, scheduled at 72 holes of medal play next Friday, Saturday and Sunday over the exacting Wyandot Country club course.

Ben Hogan, the PGA and national open champion, will not be among the entrants, having decided to appear at exhibitions next week with his fellow Texas, colorful Jimmy Demaret.

But practically all the other hot-shots of the touring troupe will be in there shooting for the top prize won a year ago by Bobby Locke, South African champion.

A host of amateurs, headed by Toledo's Frank Stranahan, current British simon-pure king, will augment the field expected to reach 120 entrants.

Two of three players who set an unusual record in the recent Tucson, Ariz., open will be in the 72-hole chase. On the 220-yard eighth hole at the Del Rio Country club in Tucson, the trio used a total of five strokes. They were Stranahan, who canned a 16-foot putt for a birdie deuce; Clayton Heafner, the drawling giant from Charlotte, N. C., who rammed down a 12-footer for another birdie, and Del Urich of Tucson, whose tee shot hit the green, hopped twice and settled into the cup for a hole in one.

Blackburn Gets Two 'Assistants'

OXFORD—(AP)—Coach George Blackburn of Miami university now has four new assistants.

The Redskin football mentor and his wife yesterday became parents of a pair of twin boys, Johnny and Jimmy. One boy weighed in at seven pounds, four ounces, the other six pounds 10 ounces.

Last week Blackburn got two new assistant coaches, Warrne Schmakel of the university of Toledo and Woodrow Willis of Gahana Lincoln.

The Blackburns have two other children, Judy, seven, and Janet, three.

Answer to Yugoslav Split With Russia Still Hidden

By JAMES D. WHITE, AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Why did Marshal Tito get kicked in the teeth?

How did it happen? What does it mean?

There is yet no clear answer to these questions Perhaps one of the best is provided by Dr Robert J Kerner historian and eastern European expert at the University of California.

On the basis of what is known thus far, Dr Kerner feels the spark plug is the pervading Soviet fear of what he calls the tremendous pulling power of the Marshall plan This has set in motion a train of events which has been speeded up by Yugoslavia's exposed geographic position in the European recovery program, and by Russia's knowledge that she and communism can offer nothing to match it

Unable to compete with ERP, someone around Moscow made the first of a series of grave blunders this spring when Tito was given the job of winning the Italian election for the Italian communists He was supposed to offer Trieste to a friendly Italian government

However Trieste is one of Yugoslavia's vital security interests and no Belgrade regime could sign it away without risking its own life So Tito made an obviously phoney offer He would give up his claim to Trieste in return for Gorizia, which lies just north and could throttle Trieste as an Italian port Naturally, the Italians did not fall for this, and Kerner thinks it likely that Tito never intended them to

With Italy lost to the communist bloc, Tito became suspect in Moscow, where members of the politburo don't travel very much and incline to judge outside events by Russian standards

For instance, there was the slow way Tito's land reform program was going. Somebody apparently turned on the heat for collectivization If they did, it was a mistake, says Kerner

Not even Yugoslav radicals however hot they may be for land reform, kid themselves that Yugoslav farmers can be collectivized without a violent revolution says Kerner

The Balkan farmer generally, and the Yugoslav farmer in particular, loves his land and has shown a historic disposition to take potshots at anyone who would take its title from him

This trait is enhanced by the nearness of the hills and forests where disgruntled peasants can linger with the family shotgun until the invader or collectivizer gives up and goes away, if he lives that long

It is quite different in Russia where the peasant lives on a broad plain over which Cossacks and other agents of Mother Russia have been galloping for centuries, telling the peasant what to do Historically, the Russian peasant has done it

Apparently Tito was expected to get the same results in Yugoslavia Not even Tito could do it—not without a major civil war

Displeasure grew and reached the breaking point Tito apparently has been bitterly read out of the communist hierarchy If either side can back down without losing a disastrous amount of face it is not yet apparent just how it can be done, says Kerner

Movie Chain Owner Heads Salary List

Hedy Lamarr Draws $279,800 Salary

Hollywood actresses, always the biggest earners among American women, were plentiful, on the list as usual. Outstanding figures included:

Hedy Lamarr, $279,800 Maureen O'Hara, $199,333; Loretta Young, $186,666; Dorothy Lamour, $175,083; Betty Hutton, $164,500; Gene Tierney, $151,083; Shirley Temple, $135,541; Paulette Goddard, $118,589; Linda Darnell, $111,333; Marlene Dietrich and Barbara Stanwyck, $100,000 each; Anne Baxter, $96,041; Ginger Rogers, $84,478; and June Haver, $80,708.

Among the movie actors at the top were:

Cary Grant, $278,125; Bob Hope, $275,000; Ray Milland, $229,166; Tyrone Power, $189,500; Dana Andrews, $182,233; William Bendix, $163,811; Fred MacMurray, $150,000; Danny Kaye, $133,928 (his ex-wife, Sylvia Fine, got an equal sum for helping write his comedy skits); Thomas Mitchell, $121,875.

Robert E. Sherwood, who used to help write speeches for the late President Roosevelt, got $208,000 for helping to write movies. The late Mark Hellinger got $156,000 as a movie writer-producer.

The list was studded also with names of widely-known men outside the picture business. Among them were:

Auto Makers Henry Ford II, $107,504, and Chrysler corporation Chief K. T. Keller, $183,300; publishers William Randolph Heart, $233,333, and John, S. Knight, $154,446; mail-order men Seward L. Avery of Montgomery Ward, $101,100, and R. E. Wood of Sears, Roebuck, $109,999.

Also comic strip artists Milton Caniff (Steve Canyon), $82,904, and Chester Gould (Dick Tracy), $93,033; merchandisers Bernard F. Gimbel, $100,000, and Beardsley Ruml of R. H. Macy, $105,240; Walter Winchell, the columnist, $97,684; Larry S. McPhail of baseball's New York Yankees, $183,089; and Bankers L. M. Giannini (Bank of America), $106,380, and Winthrop W. Aldrich (Chase National) $182,100.

And as for that tax bite:

For single persons without dependents, for example, the federal tax alone ranged from $39,643 on a 1946 income of $70,000, to $63,540 on $100,000, $191,771 on $250,000, and $840,146 on $1,000,000.

Marriage Rise Noted In March

MILLERSBURG — The month of March slightly edged out June, the traditional "month of brides," for marriages in Holmes county. In March, 14 couples obtained licenses while in June there were only 13. Next in line was the month of May with 12 licenses granted. April had 9, February 4 and January 5, making a total of 57 for the first six months of 1948 as compared to the total of 52 during the first six months of 1947.

Plan to Restore Fish Hatchery

BUCYRUS—All officers of the newly incorporated Crawford County Conservation League were reelected when the League, Inc., met Wednesday night at the fish hatchery east of Bucyrus on Rt. 98. The corporation recently was granted a 10-year lease on the hatchery and members are developing plans for restoring the hatchery which has fallen into a state of disuse since abandonment about 10 years ago.

Officers elected were W. H. Eichler, Galion president; Jay Zeigler, Bucyrus, vice president, and G. W. Halsey, Galion, secretary-treasurer.

Burglars Get $20 At Roseland Garage

Burglars broke into the Roseland garage on State Route 39, Saturday night or early yesterday, taking $20 in bills and change, sheriff's deputies reported.

Deputies said entrance was made through a window, which was broken by the burglars. The money was in the cash register.

Driver Charged

Earl Kiser, Mansfield, R D 2, last night was charged by police with operating a motor vehicle on a temporary permit unaccompanied by a licensed driver. Kiser was apprehended going through a red light at Main and Olive streets, police said. He was ordered into municipal court at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday.

JEWS DEADLOCKED

MONTREUX, Switzerland (AP) — Disputes between communist and anti-communist delegates deadlocked last night the political committee of the world Jewish congress over a resolution defining the basic principles of Jewish policy.

Reds Move Into Siam

MANILA —(AP)— A new base for communist activity in southeast Asia appears to be taking shape in Bangkok, storybook capital of Siam.

This is the interpretation that most qualified observers put on the arrival of a large Russian delegation of more than 40 persons to establish Russia's first legation in Siam.

"There are not more than ten Soviet citizens in all Siam," a Siamese official asserted. So, you see, they are sure to have at least four diplomats to represent each citizen."

The Russians, headed by Minister Serge Niemchina, have kept to themselves in one of Bangkok's leading hotels.

The situation has not escaped the attention of western diplomats.

"The game Moscow is playing is not just a European game or a China game," U.S. Ambassador Edwin F. Stanton said last week.

"The situation in Malaya (scene of disorders attributed to communists) has served to focus attention on this part of the world.

"If all southeast Asia becomes a solid, hostile communist bloc, it will be a cause of great concern to all the world."

UMW Accepts $1-Day Hike

NEW YORK—(AP)—The United Mine Workers' scale committee Sunday ratified an agreement with anthracite operators calling for a one-dollar-a-day increase for 80,000 miners in hard coal fields.

The agreement also provides for an increase of from 10 to 20 cents per ton in royalties to be paid by the operators into the UMW health and welfare fund.

The agreement between the operators and UMW negotiators was announced Saturday night, but details of the new contract were withheld.

The 35-man scale committee's ratification of the contract was announced following a two-hour session at which John L. Lewis, UMW president, and other members of the negotiating committee made their recommendations. Lewis declined comment on the pact.

$168,000 Gold Theft

PARIS — (AP) — Burglars last night stole gold valued at more than $168,000 from a customs house at Orly airfield, near Paris. The metal, in the form of refined powdered gold, had arrived Saturday by plane from New York and was consigned to the Bank of Indochina, an Air France official said.

Boys Break Sign

Two Mansfield boys who broke a sign on the Spaghetti Inn, 216 East Second street, were warned by police yesterday. Their parents said they would pay for the damages. The complaint was made by Leonard Parella, operator of the inn. The boys broke the sign about 10:30 a. m. Sunday while playing ball in the street, police said.

Emergency Declared

PANAMA, Panama —(AP)— The government declared a state of national emergency Sunday. It suspended constitutional guarantees and summoned the national assembly into an emergency session to deal with a wave of political violence.

The assembly is scheduled to meet next Friday.

Three persons were killed and more than 20 wounded Saturday night in two clashes.

Two were killed when police and followers of Arnulfo Arias Madrid, who won the unofficial vote count for the presidency in the May election, shot it out. A third person died when supporters of the Liberal (government) party raided the headquarters of Arias' Authentic Revolutionary party.

5-Yr. Victim of Gassy Stomach
"For 5 years I suffered from gas welling and bloat," says a well-known citizen: "My meals just laid in my stomach and turned to gas. Had dizzy attacks from this condition. I tried many medicines, but they never had any effect on me, but finally I found INNER-AID. It cleared out all my gas. Now I can eat without misery afterward. This is the only medicine that ever helped me."
INNER-AID is the new formula of 12 juices from Nature's Plants. It has relieved many people who had never been really helped before by any medicine. Taken shortly before meals it mixes with your food, thus eliminating the poisons that foster stomach trouble. It will cleanse the bowels, clear gas from stomach, enliven liver and remove old bile from the system. So don't go on suffering! Get INNER-AID. Sold by all drug stores.—Adv.

Section Provided For Mental Patients

Staff Eagerly Awaits New OSR Hospital

By DWYER CLAY

The new $400,000 hospital at the Mansfield reformatory, expected to be ready in 1950, will mark the beginning of a new chapter in medical care of OSR inmates, Dr. John V. Horst, reformatory physician, believes. "When the hospital is completed, I'll be able to get a clear picture, on a moment's notice, of every patient's condition, treatment and progress," Dr. Horst said.

The physician is particularly enthusiastic about the proposed special hospital sections for mental patients. Treatment and proper isolation of inmates with mental ailments have long been major problems at the institution.

The top floor of the four-story hospital building will be a tuberculosis isolation ward, including the solarium and the occupational therapy section, Dr. Horst said. There the patients will be divided in groups according to their disease and progress.

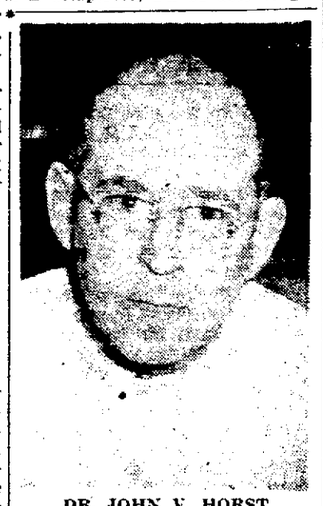
"At present we have 60 beds for the invalid patients, but we actually need at least 175 beds to accommodate all of them," he said. "The new hospital will take care of that without too much trouble and will certainly make all the work a lighter load to carry. We are now using a section of the east wing to provide beds for most of the patients.

NEW ARRIVALS CHECKED

"Every new inmate is given a complete physical check-up upon his arrival and is under my care for about 10 days of observation before I release him for work," he said, "this creates additional work besides the care of regular patients."

Dr. Horst is highly pleased with his staff.

"I have 68 boys working for me and among them is one boy in the surgical section who sets up surgery and prepares the patients carefully and efficiently," he said. "I also have an expert laboratory technician, an x-ray technician, and a chief cook and dietician who make my work considerably easier," he continued.



DR. JOHN V. HORST

During the past month we have had 27,000 personal contacts in the hospital as patients including dental and sick call. We have taken 247 x-rays and served more than 14,000 hospital meals to patients," he said.

Happy Stitchers Visit Bookmobile

Members of the Ontario Happy Stitchers 4-H club visited the new bookmobile after their last meeting.

They met at the home of Mrs. Oscar Perry, and Sylvia Schweighardtt, president, acted as hostess in Mrs. Perry's absence. A program and refreshments were enjoyed after the business meeting.

The next meeting will be Thursday at 1:30 p. m., at the home of the president.

BLOOMING GROVE—Plans to organize a Harding Memorial Library association here will be formulated at a meeting at the Blooming Grove school house next Monday, July 12, at 8:30 p. m.

Ritchie Honored By Moose Lodge

Paul W. Ritchie, Mansfield municipal court clerk, will handle publicity for the Ohio Moose association during the next year.

Ritchie, active in Moose affairs in Mansfield for a number of years, also was made a past president by the Ohio Moose association in recognition of his work for the lodge.

The action was taken at the recent state Moose convention in Cincinnati.

Earl A. McFarland of Mansfield, deputy supreme governor, and Ritchie were named to the state advisory board.

Special Shelby Officer Retires

SHELBY — George W. Hoffman, 74, of 10 S. Broadway, has retired from his duties as deskman for the Shelby city police after serving in this capacity for almost 7 years.

Hoffman was appointed as a special officer by Mayor William Morris on Dec. 8, 1941, as an emergency measure during the war.

Chief Leroy Coffey stated last night that the vacancy would not be filled since the job had been created as an emergency measure.

Crew of Workers Start Task Of Washing 47 Chandeliers

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — If you've ever tried to take a chandelier apart you know the colossal job Art Cook and his helpers have on their hands

Hanging from the ceiling, shimmering in front of the lights, prisms tinkling, a chandelier is a thing of beauty. But taken down, ready for a wash job, it looks like any other heap of glass.

Taking it—or them—down is Art's job Congress has gone home, leaving a dusty house behind Particularly those 47 chandeliers in the capitol building.

Art, a pleasant, gray-haired man who has been sitting behind the same desk in the capitol architect's office for over half a century, had his sleeves rolled up even before Congress beat it for the hinterland

The first team on his chandelier cleaning crew is made up of eight women from the restaurant in the basement of the capitol They are the prism girls

"I picked them because they are used to handling crockery," said the assistant architect

The last time the girls did the job he said, they broke only two prisms out of the thousands and thousands they handled

Rest of the crew is made up of two ladder men who dismantled the fixtures and polish the silver plated metal which is left up there

How long does it all take, this wash job for 47 lamps?

Art took a pencil from behind his ear and began to figure. Ten people, working eight hours a day, for two and a half months. Roughly, about 4,000 hours.

Every last one of the prisms has to be washed three times by hand You can't dry them with flour-sack tea towels like you do glass goblets at home Leaves specks of light So, says Art, they have to be dried in very fine sawdust

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

JOE PALOOKA

GOSH, AIN'T IT A GRAND DAY, MR. PALOOKA? I'M SURE GLAD WE'RE OVER HERE TO ENJOY IT.
YES, AND IF WE WANT TO KEEP ON ENJOYING IT WE'VE GOT TO GUARD THE PRINCIPLES OF DEMOCRACY MORE THAN EVER. A WHOLE WORLD IS WATCHING US.
THE LOSS OF THE THINGS WE FOUGHT FOR... FREEDOM OF SPEECH, OF WORSHIP, INDIVIDUAL ENTERPRISE, CIVIL RIGHTS, ARE WHAT TOTALITARIANS CRAVE MOST...
AND REMEMBER THIS; RACIAL AND RELIGIOUS HATRED ARE THE PISTOL AT THE HEAD OF DEMOCRACY! IT'S THE SUREST WAY OF DESTROYING IT! WE HAVE TO FIGHT THEM OR THE WHOLE WORLD WILL TURN FROM... IT'S IDEAL ... AMERICA ...
GEE! YOU SURE SAID A MOUTHFUL!

FELIX

Steel Price Hike Called 'Imminent'

Action Expected By Consumers

CLEVELAND —(U.P.)— Steel price increases, which appear 'imminent," probably will be accepted complacently by consumers, the magazine Steel said today

Reason for the complacency, Steel said, is that supply rather than prices still is the most important factor to consumers

As proof, the magazine pointed out the prevalence of grey market operations and conversion deals and lack of complaint when all steel companies did not follow US Steel's lead in lowering prices in May

Consumers Steel said are resigned to the fact that a new wage advance for steelworkers will be the "trigger" to touch off more steel price increases

The magazine said reports indicate that elimination of recent steel price reductions will not be sufficient to cover increased costs Consequently, Steel said, producers which in May stood pat on prices are expected to have to move upward this time

It appears there will be no general advance however, until US Steel makes its position known, the trade journal said

The magazine also reported some conjecture that a price rise might coincide with the adoption by the steel industry of an f o b mill pricing basis.

Steel ingot production meanwhile, continued at a high level last week totaling about 1,715 000 tons The estimated national rate however dropped a point to 95 per cent of capacity

U. N. Mediator Urges Creation of Arab and Jewish States

Opposition To Plan Seen As Likely

Truce Extension Request Expected

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

LAKE SUCCESS — (AP) — The United Nations said Sunday creation of Arab and Jewish states out of the old Palestine mandate with Jerusalem in Arab territory, has been proposed by the United Nations Palestine mediator.

The Arab league was reported against the plan. U.N. officials speculated that the Jews might also disagree with parts of it but they said they hoped talks would continue.

The U.N. released Sunday afternoon the official text of proposals made by the mediator, Count Folke Bernadotte, of Sweden, to Arabs and Jews June 28 in an effort to settle the Palestine problem.

Bernadotte indicated he hoped for an extension of the middle east truce which ends July 9. But he did not commit himself.

HIS SUGGESTIONS

Bernadotte suggested that:

1. The original Palestine mandate, including trans-Jordan, might form a union of two members, one Arab and one Jewish.

2. This union would coordinate foreign and defense policies of the two members. It would promote common economic interests.

3. Jerusalem would be in Arab territory, with autonomy for the Jewish population and protection for the holy places.

4. Each state would fix its own immigration policy. If there is a dispute on immigration, the U.N. economic and social council would be asked for a decision.

5. Status of the city of Jaffa, once predominantly Arab but now held by Israel, would be considered later. Haifa would be a free port; Lydda the air door to Jerusalem, would be a free airport.

6. Holy places would be preserved and existing rights would be guaranteed by each member of the union.

URGE TWO STATES

The suggestion for two states bound up in an economic union closely follows the United Nations partition plan approved by the U.N. assembly last Nov. 29. The Jews accepted that plan before the mandate was terminated on May 15 but the Arabs have fought it consistently.

The U.N. plan covered only the present borders of Palestine. It did not include the area now known as Trans-Jordan, which was carved out of the original Palestine mandate given to Britain by the League of Nations.

Bernadotte's proposal apparently would extend Trans-Jordan's borders to include Arab areas of Palestine.

Bernadotte said his proposals took account of the realities of the situation. He said he could not, on grounds of equity and on practical grounds, call on either party to surrender completely its position.

In suggesting a free Haifa, Bernadotte said the free port should include the refineries and terminals. Oil lines run from Arab territory to Haifa.

GIVE DESERT TO ARABS

He proposed that the whole of the desert territory in the Negeb be given to the Arabs and that the whole or part of western Gallilee be included in Jewish territory.

Regarding the union, the mediator proposed:

"That the purposes and function of the Union should be to promote common economic interests, to operate and maintain common services, including customs and excise, to undertake development projects and to coordinate foreign policy and measures for common defense."

He said however, in his suggestions that subject to the provisions of the union agreement, each member may exercise full control over its own affairs, including its foreign relations.

On the ticklish point of immigration, Bernadotte proposed that each state take care of whatever immigrants it felt it could absorb subject to review within two years by the council of the union.

Atomic Bill Becomes Law

WASHINGTON — (AP) — bill giving the present atomic energy commission two more years in office was signed into law reluctantly Saturday by President Truman.

Mr. Truman criticized the measure as "not in the best public interest since it invests the atomic energy program with an aura of uncertainty and of partisan politics."

The President had asked the Senate to approve Chairman David E. Lilienthal for regular full-term appointments. This would have given Lilienthal five more years as chairman and the other commissioners terms ranging from one to four years each.

Dayton Will End Ban on Slacks

DAYTON —(INS)— Women may soon wear slacks legally on Dayton streets.

Among outmoded ordinances being expunged from the city's code is one setting a $50 fine and 30-day jail sentence for women in male attire.

The ordinance, passed in 1858, hasn't been enforced for a long time.

Willard Airport News

Flying Club Host To Pilots

WILLARD — The Willard Flying club served free breakfast to over 150 pilots on Sunday morning at the Airport when they held their annual Get-Together for 25 neighboring airports. Pilots flew in from Ashland, New London, Greenwich, Warren, Mansfield, Shelby, Elmore, Sandusky, Castalia, Lodi, Nevada, Fostoria, Monroeville, Norwalk, Galion and Magnolia.

George Elbert of Sandusky landed at the secret arrival time to receive a pilot's purse and flying cap. Margaret Mitchell was chairman of the eats committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Dodds were in charge of registration and welcoming the group. All club members participated in entertaining the fellow pilots.

Truman Asks 24-Hour Flag Display

WASHINGTON— (AP) —President Truman has ordered 24-hour daily display of the flag at Fort McHenry, Baltimore, where Francis Scott Key wrote the "Star Spangled Banner."

Mr. Truman in a proclamation authorized display of the flag at the historic shrine "at all times during the day or night" as a "perpetual symbol of our patriotism." The flag will be lowered only during severe weather.

The flag normally is displayed only from sunrise to sunset.

In his proclamation making an exception to this rule, Mr. Truman noted that "stirring evidence of the failure of the prolonged attack" against American forces in Chesapeake Bay during the night of Sept. 13, 1814, inspired Key to write the national anthem. Key watched the bombardment of Ft. McHenry.

50 Dem Leaders Join Forces

Truman Civil Rights Program Urged

MINNEAPOLIS—(AP)—A statement that 50 leaders of the Democratic party intend to write President Truman's civil rights program into the party's 1948 campaign platform was issued here Sunday.

The statement was released by Minneapolis' Mayor Hubert H. Humphrey, a member of the Democratic national convention committee which will draft the platform. The convention will open in Philadelphia July 12.

Humphrey said he would present the statement as the view of progressive Democrats who believe adoption of the program is essential to the welfare of the nation.

"The report of the President's committee on civil rights is one of the most important measures of moral strategy devised by the United States of America in modern times," the statement reads in part.

"As an examination of America's political conscience, it dramatized the internal vitality of our democracy and eloquently challenged the rest of the civilized world.

MANY ARE DELEGATES

"As active members of the Democratic party, and as citizens, we support this program. Many of us will be delegates to the national convention of our party in Philadelphia. The issue of civil rights is in the worthiest tradition of our party. We hereby declare that we shall actively seek, at Philadelphia, to make the accomplishment of this program a part of our party's platform for 1948."

The statement says the report "measures the intent of our most cherished documents against the reality of the present and recommends concrete legislative measures to close the gap between profession and practice in the field of civil rights."

Among the signers were Humphrey; Jacob M. Arvey, Cook county, Ill., Democratic leader; James Roosevelt, his brother, Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., and his sister, Anna Roosevelt Boettiger; several persons highly placed in the administration of the late President Roosevelt; President William Green of the American Federation of Labor; Edward J. Flynn, former chairman of the Democratic national committee; several former senators and congressmen and numerous members of state and national Democratic committees.

ANNOUNCEMENT PARTY TO NAME NUPTIAL DATES

Miss Katherine Koehl to Become Bride July 10 and Miss Helen Clever on July 18.

MISS KATHERINE KOEHL of Sycamore and Miss Helen Clever of Lexington were honored at an announcement party given Sunday afternoon by Mrs. Robert Snyder and Mrs. Lloyd Clever, sister and mother, respectively, of Miss Clever and Miss Koehl's fiance.

Small envelopes, concealed under a silver heart-shaped centerpiece, with ribbons leading to each placecard, contained jig-saw puzzles, which, when pieced together, formed hearts revealing the wedding dates of the two couples

Miss Koehl aod George Clever of Lexington will be wed Saturday, July 10, at 10:30 a. m. in a closed service at the Evangelical Reformed church in Sycamore.

Miss Helen Clever and Gerald Pollock, both of Lexington, will be united in marriage Sunday, July 18, at 7 p. m. in an open church service at the First Presbyterian church in Lexington.

Women Vary In Opinions On Clothes

By ANN SCHOENMAN

With the prices climbing higher and higher one thing that is dear to the heart of every woman is becoming endangered. One thing that every woman, young and old alike, admires and desires very much is pretty clothes

A dress that costs $14 95 today is nothing too exceptional. It is usually just a plain cotton with very little added trim. Five years ago that same dress could be bought for approximately $8.95. This is too great an increase for most of the pocketbooks of the average housewife.

Most of the women of Mansfield are asking for the less expensive dress rather than the high priced one that the best dressed lady of America might choose.

Women do get fanatical about clothes when they aren't happy. Especially when they have had a fight or misunderstanding with their boy friends or husbands.

There are three good reasons why a woman would buy high priced clothes. They dress (A) for other women, in a competitive sense; (B) for men, to attract attention to themselves; and (C) for themselves, as a sop to their injured egos, because they're "Abysmal failures" as wives and mothers.

The younger girls in Mansfield choose the high priced clothes to the less expensive ones because, "You won't see yourself coming up the street every time you step out," is the statement given most as the reason for shunning bargain counters.

While the younger set backs away form the less expensive dress the more economical housewife chooses to buy two dresses to the one their daughter might select.

Mrs. J. E. Augustine, 292 Sheridan avenue, said, "I'll take the two dresses because I can get more good out of two than one expensive dress."

Mrs J. M. Kennedy, 279 Sheridan avenue, agrees with her shopping friend that a person would be farther ahead if they get two for one. She said. "You can have a change oftener".

One fashion designer says that too often the best dressed lists are a directory to the most miserable women in the country, barring those who are included purely for their name value. She also adds that a woman, who is successful as a female, dresses simply and ingeniously, with an eye to advertising page values and with emphasis on a certain number of basic outfits, augmented by fashionable accessories.

From what this one authority says maybe the mothers aren't too wrong when they do choose the less expensive dresses and have two instead of one high priced one.

Mose people agree that a young housewife in a simple cotton dress can stand up against the majority of fashionable women any day.

MRS. ROBERT DAGARIN

Pictured above are three brides of June. Left shows Mrs. Joseph A. Manz, nee Rose Contrascere, who was wed June 26 in a formal ceremony at the Central Methodist church. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nunzio Contrascere, 245 West Fifth street, and Mr. Manz is the son of Nick Manz sr., Conneaut, O. A reception for 200 guests was held later in the day at North Lake park pavilion. The couple is now at home following a wedding trip.

Before her marriage on June 27, Mrs. Paul Richard McClurg was Miss Marybelle Cole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raleigh Jay Cole, Lincoln Heights. Her nuptial service was performed at the Church of the Brethren, Lincoln Heights, with open church observed. Mr. McClurg is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer McClurg of Lucas. The bridal party received 125 guests at a reception in the church parlors. After July 12 they will be at home at 155 Blymyer avenue.

Miss Jean Frances Herrick became the bride of Robert Dagarin June 26 in a formal ceremony at St. Peter's Catholic church. The recent bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carlton C. Herrick, 218 West Fifth street, and Mr. Dagarin's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Valentine Dagarin, 681 Alice street, East Palestine, O. Following the ceremony a reception was held for 150 guests at the Herrick home. After July 11 the couple will be at home at 1806 Second street, Cuyahoga Falls, O.

Covering the Younger Set

Just Ask Ann

Now that hot weather has really set in, vacations are becoming a reality instead of wistful dreams of the future. The lakes will have a good representation of Mansfield's younger set for the next couple of months . . .

The first week in August Gizella Knefely, Jane Van Tilburg, Sarah Scott, Ann Shawber, Barbara Blahnik, Susie Stoodt, Martha Shiplet, Rita Richert, Betty LaYacona and Charlotte Hayward are going to occupy a cottage by the cool lake. Ann Knapp will go along as chaperone for the group . . . While these girls are resting by the blue lake, Johnny Park will be filling coke machines and selling ice cream at the Westinghouse.

* * *

A few other boys who will spend the summer at the Westinghouse are Bobby Richards and Gene Carlisle. Dave Drumm has a job in the stock department at the Wetstinghouse and Marilyn Beattie is also on the job in the employment office at the same firm . . . Bob Cramer will work at the Dominion Electric for the rest of the hot weather.

* * *

A couple of boys who like to work out in the sun are Dave Carto and Don McFarland. They will be working for a contractor here in town . . . Bob Troll will be collecting that weekly check from the state. He is now a state employe . . . Ann Rich has returned recently from a vacation at Kenyon college . . . Ann Shawber and Terry Stoodt will be filling their time in at O'Neil's . . . Bill McGraw will continue his work at Martin Steel.

* * *

I don't know if you call it work or not, but Phyllis Webber was seen riding around town in the Reed's delivery truck . . . Katherine Nethro has been seen at Liberty park, in swimming quite often, since her return from Columbus . . . Almeretta Mastandrea is hoping the months will fly by until September when Bill Gross will return home on leave from the Navy . . . Marilyn Massa and "Tennessee" were seen swimming out at North Lake pool the other day . . . John McVicar was also taking in the sun out at North Lake the same day . . . Beverly Gutchall is working in the advertising department at Sears now . . . Marilyn Hughes can be caught behind the big catalog order desk at Montgomery Ward and company . . .

* * *

Carolyn Thompson is taking care of her cousins for the next few months . . . Emily Campbell is still in the employ of Ritter's . . . Marilyn Pendleton works every once in a while for her father at his grocery store . . . Now Pat Miller has the idea for vacation. She is loafing at the present.

* * *

While you are vacationing by the lake shore or swimming in the pools around Mansfield, try and forget the fact that soon cold weather will set in and school and work will begin for another year.

PAGE FOUR — MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, JULY 5, 1948

One suggestion is that July be generally observed as a "do-nothing-at-all" month.

This country has more fine natural scenery than any other in the world, but that's no reason for squandering and spoiling it.

Oleo Taxation Still Live Issue

WHILE the effort to induce Congress to repeal the discriminatory federal taxes on oleomargarine was again stymied by the powerful dairy lobby, this can be rightly regarded as far from a dead issue.

The measure designed to remove this 62-year-old tax made greater progress this year than ever before, having been passed by the House and approved by the Senate finance committee.

Heretofore House action had been blocked by the agriculture committee, but this time a majority of House members forced the proposal out of committee and it was passed by a substantial majority.

Then came the jockeying to prevent a vote in the Senate, and by desperate maneuvering a handful of representatives of several dairy states succeeded in staving off Senate action.

It is noteworthy that public resentment against the high taxes imposed on colored oleo was much more widely expressed this year than ever before—probably due to the extremely high price of butter—and headway made by the movement in recent months indicates that this subject will remain alive until both houses of Congress can be induced to hold majority wishes in higher esteem than a minority pressure group.

Separate Lane For Bicyclists Urged

WITH rising automobile prices putting these vehicles out of reach of millions of people who are struggling to make ends meet, a revival of interest in bicycles is appearing over the country and efforts are increasing to make bicycle riding safer by providing a lane on main roads and city streets, separated from automobile traffic, for use of the bicyclists.

It is estimated that there are now 17,000,000 bicycle riders in the United States, with prediction that the total will reach 25,000,000 by 1960. It is pointed out by the Bicycle Institute of America that, despite the spectacular resurgence of bicycling within the last decade, few cities have taken action to make bicycle paths anything but a "convenient treadmill"—this referring to paths through parks.

In addition to the large number of children who use bicycles for recreation, errands, and in riding to and from school, it is found that many adults get to and from work on bicycles and it is anticipated that this number will increase as auto prices mount to prohibitive figures.

In the unequal competition between millions of bicycles and millions of cars, figures show that three out of four accidents involving bikes could be avoided by construction of special lanes, such as are now being urged.

World Bank Can Be Helpful Agent

NAT A. BARROWS, writing for the Chicago News on the International Bank, says that its benefits, though associated with large-scale planning, also affect the individual worker in the 46 nations participating in its operation.

In many countries in Europe today, the will to work exists among many people, and this is supplemented by the necessary technical knowledge, but industries are stymied by lack of money for raw materials and machinery. The World Bank will furnish funds for rehabilitation and for new projects. The loans, like any loan from a private bank, must be properly secured, and the World Bank, like any private bank, makes a careful investigation before granting a loan.

It is only through such means that production on a large scale will be possible in many areas for some time to come. Efficient production helps achieve a proper balance between imports and exports, and a balanced economy means prosperity for the worker. Thus the World Bank, a little-publicized agency of the United Nations, enters into the everyday lives of countless thousands of citizens.

Boston Considers Manager Plan

BOSTON should adopt the city manager form of government and the Boston Chamber of Commerce will work towards this end, says the chamber's new head, C. Lawrence Muench. With occasional exceptions the city has been governed badly for many years; the development has culminated in the reign of its present mayor, James M. Curley, now serving his fourth term. Curley's duties were interrupted by a term in the federal penitentiary, from which he returned unabashed to resume the mayoralty.

Boston could fare no worse than under its present system. Outsiders will wish more power to the campaign of its chamber of commerce. Some other cities might also profit by the manager plan.

Conservation of Fish Becomes Need

AS VACATIONS loom and the fishing season gets under way, it is time to warn sportsmen about waste and destruction of fish. While fishing is a great joy to thousands of Americans, it may soon become a lost occupation.

Both those who indulge in fishing as a sport and those combing the waters for commercial purposes are playing havoc with this country's fish. Dumping of poisonous waste into the water also contributes. This is true along the far reaches of Oregon inlets where tuna and salmon used to flourish, in Florida waters where the existence of sailfish is threatened, in inlets, lakes and streams from one end of the country to the other.

Game and limit licensing laws in certain sections attempt to do a job of conservation. Fishermen are supposed to throw back the small fish and take out only a designated number each day. But evasions are easy.

The real hope for the future of the great sport of fishing, as far as this country goes, is in the attitude of the fishermen themselves. If they can begin to count it more sporting to limit the catch and the size of the fish than to have mere numbers on the string, fishing can continue to provide enjoyable recreation for generations.

It appears that there is now a vacancy in the heavyweight boxing title—due to undefeated retirement of Joe Louis—but this is a post that cannot be won by election, nor held by political influence.

Every child should have a chance to learn how to swim.

The Only Place In the World It's Being Done.

Washington Calling

Centennial Year of Historic Monument

By MARQUIS CHILDS

THIS is the centennial of a monument. Just a century ago the cornerstone of the Washington Monument was put in place.

There are a great many monuments in Washington. Some are ugly, some memoralize forgotten men, some are just plain misplaced and ludicrous. But through a fortunate combination of circumstances the monument to Washington was made to fit the greatness of the man.

In its simplicity, its dignity, its grandeur, that soaring shaft of marble could not be excelled.

Even as the capital has grown and the greedy and the self-seeking have from time to time seemed to take over, it has remained to remind the doubters and the disillusioned of what courage, integrity, character can mean.

Solid and enduring as the monument is, it has its moods and its moments. I think I like it best in October when the great elms around the mall have lost their leaves and the light is clear and sharp.

You can hardly see it, even though you see it a thousand times, without thinking of the man whom it memorializes. As he was the chief architect of our independence, slaving and toiling and sweating for it, so he should have the chief monument in the city that bears his name.

For this anniversary Chalmers M. Roberts has put together a book of pictures and text, "The Washington Monument, the Story of a National Shrine."

It contains a great many interesting facts about the obelisk that dominates the horizon of the capital.

Among the 20,000 persons present on July 4, 1848, when the cornerstone was laid were six men who were to occupy the White House. One was President James K. Polk and another was ex-President Martin Van Buren. James Buchanan, secretary of state in the Polk cabinet, was among the dignitaries.

Abraham Lincoln was present that day, an obscure member of Congress from Illinois. So were two other congressmen who would eventually move into the White House, Millard Fillmore and Andrew Johnson.

Competition In Designs.

IN THE competition for a prize-winning design, all sorts of monstrosities were submitted, including a Victorian gimcrack closely resembling, if one may judge from the design, the hideous Albert Memorial in London Indian pagodas and Italian renaissance towers were among the proposals submitted to the committee that was to raise the funds by public subscription.

In the original design for the obelisk, its base was to have been a pantheon containing portraits and mementoes of Revolutionary heroes. Fortunately, the pantheon concept got lost at some point or other and what we have today is the simple obelisk.

Public subscription raised the monument to 154 feet by 1854. There it stopped until Congress took over in the midst of the centennial fervor in 1876. Then again zealous architects came forward with new and elaborate ideas. But again the obelisk was preserved.

In December, 1884, the apex was completed, and on Washington's birthday the following year the aluminum capstone was set in place at 550 feet and the monument was dedicated.

Rep. Christian Herter of Massachusetts likes to tell about an incident that occurred when he was with an UNRRA mission in Yugoslavia in 1946. He was traveling in a jeep with the wife of the minister of war. She was a fiery communist who talked at length about the glories of the new Yugoslavia. When Herter had been silent a long time, she suddenly said, "Don't you love your country?"

The startled Herter replied that he did love it very much. Then why don't you talk about it?" she demanded.

Most of us take for granted what we have with a complacency that is often downright smugness. That soaring shaft should be a reminder of a day when men struggled and fought and died for the freedoms we enjoy.

The Nation Today

Hang-Overs From Past

By JAMES MARLOW

IT'S ABOUT time politicians got a new technique for their political conventions.

It would be a lot easier on the human beings who go to them if the speeches were fewer and shorter.

The present method, repeated every four years, is old-fashioned and tiresome: Long speeches and wild demonstrations that don't mean much.

The late Thomas "Fats" Waller, the fat and happy piano player, used to sing a piece called "The Joint Is Jumpin'."

It describes the Republican convention in Philadelphia on the night of Wednesday, June 23, the night of the nominating speeches.

What happened then may have impressed somebody listening over a radio. It didn't win any votes for anyone.

Starting at 9 p. m. and ending around 4 o'clock in the morning, the names of the would-be candidates for president were placed in nomination.

That meant seven hours of speech-making and demonstrating, far beyond the time when everyone there wished he were in bed.

Each person who got up in the jammed convention hall was allowed 15 minutes to make the speech nominating his candidate.

Everyone who got up after him to second the nomination was allowed five minutes. And there were relays of seconding speakers although only one was needed.

To make matters worse, almost every speaker used up every minute allowed him.

There was hardly anything new in the speeches, anything which the delegates, who were going to vote for the candidates, didn't already know.

Most of them were full of the old-time, highblown oratory, trying to make the candidate being mentioned look like the glistening savior of America.

Then Came Demonstrations.

THE speechmaking would have been tough enough and tiresome enough if that was all that had happened.

But there were the demonstrations in between. They lasted anywhere from four or five minutes to more than a half-hour of screaming, jumping, parading through the aisles, waving banners.

If you were home, listening to it over your radio, you might have thought each parade after a nomination was a spontaneous outburst of joy, all very sudden, for the candidate just placed in nomination. It wasn't.

For example: A swarm of people waited for hours in the basement so they could go upstairs at the right time and put on, or join in, the demonstration for Harold E. Stassen when his name was placed in nomination.

They carried huge Stassen banners and thousands of balloons to give color to their performance when it started.

All that happened on Wednesday night and early Thursday morning. But nobody at that time could be swept up in emotion to cast a single ballot for anyone. The reason:

The voting itself did not, and everyone there knew would not, start until Thursday afternoon. But it's been customary for years to put on demonstrations like that, so they were put on.

All this must have been a bit amusing to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and the political generals running his campaign.

They knew on Wednesday night, amid all the excitement, that Dewey was the best bet to get the nomination when the voting started the next day.

There's a moral in all this:

1. The long speeches, nominating and seconding, could be improved by cutting them down, while saving everyone's time and patience.

2. The big demonstrations on nominating night are noise, but not much more. They're a hangover from times past.

Come to think of it, the convention would be improved if the speeches on the other conventions days were shorter and fewer.

Dave Boone Says:

WELL, a lot of New York folks are so indignant over the ten-cent subway fare that they threaten to take their straphanging somewhere else.

* * *

The most stubborn subway rider we know stayed on a train for two round trips before getting off at his original destination. He argued that he was breaking even.

* * *

I see where New York bricklayers have won another raise, this one bringing them $3.20 an hour. An eight-hour day would mean $25.60 per day. That's about a dollar a brick at present speeds.

* * *

New York City doubled its tax on business and outlawed pinball machines the same day. That's contradictory. The city uses business as a pinball game and makes the businessmen provide both the marbles and the holes.

* * *

I wonder if we will get any telecasts of the Stalin-Tito fight.

Tito Forgot He Was 'Made In Moscow'

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON —Memories of an ex-Yugoslav resident: Stalin might have taken a leaf from an American relief workers' notebook before he embroidered the Red star on the Yugoslav patchwork quilt . . . As individuals, Yugoslavs are among the swellest people in the world, but also the most difficult. Taken ensemble they are impossible . . . Basically they are no more communist than Colonel McCormick or Tom Girdler and never will be — especially the Serbs, Bosnians, Herzegovinians and Montenegrins . . . Some of them like Tito because they love to fight, and Tito is a swashbuckler who speaks their language . . . For a thousand years, the Yugoslavs—especially the Serbs—have fought off wave after wave of Turkish invaders . . . The plains of Kossovo and Macedonia in Southern Serbia are dotted with crimson poppies — reminders, so say the Serbs, of the blood spilled fighting the Turks . . . Having finally liberated themselves from one conqueror, the Serbs aren't anxious for another conquest by communism — as this writer has so frequently pointed out.

* * *

Will Tito Die In Bed?

ABOUT a year ago this crystal-gazer predicted Tito would be assassinated before the year was up. The prediction was wrong. But it was based upon the certain knowledge that the trigger-happy dictator of Yugoslavia would have to change his tactics or die with his boots on . . . Few kings of Yugoslavia in the past have died in bed. When they get unpopular they get bumped off . . . Tito was getting unpopular with three sets of his own people: 1. The Serbs, because he is a Croat: 2. With many Croats because they are Roman Catholic and don't appreciate communism; 3. With peasants in all parts of the country.

* * *

Moscow Orders Impossible.

TITO found himself the fall-guy between two sets of ideas that didn't have a chance in the world of jelling . . . The Kremlin told him to communise the peasants, and the peasants didn't want to be communised.

Yugoslav peasants are a lot different from Russian peasants, where the land is flat and where farmers live in villages for protection, going out in the daytime to work on the land.

In contrast Yugoslavia is rough and wild, with the peasants living in isolated areas. Community life, except on Sunday, is as foreign to them as the Czar's gold bathtubs. They have defended their twelve hectares from the Turks, the Bulgars, the Austrians and the Nazis and they are not going to give their land up now to any new-fangled idea of community farming . . . Furthermore, any government agent who tries to tell them otherwise gets a bullet in the neck for his pains . . . So Tito, faced with trouble at home or trouble in the Kremlin, chose trouble that was farthest away.

* * *

Tito's Great Illusion.

WHAT gripes the Russians is that Tito has forgotten he was "Made in Moscow." He seems to think he is a self-made man . . . Here are some flashbacks into history, which the Russians remember, even if Tito does not. Incidentally, several high American diplomats remember them, too:

Scene 1 — Teheran: Stalin, in expansive mood and having won his 2nd-front program, proceeded to give some advice to Churchill about the Balkans. If Britain wanted to control Dalmatia, he advised, it was a mistake to operate through General Milhailovitch, a Serb. Britain should take over Tito, a Croat, in order to be successful. In fact, Stalin generously offered Tito to Churchill on a sort of human lend-lease deal.

Scene 2 — Tito's hideaway: Churchill and FDR both accepted Stalin's advice, not so much because they trusted Tito but because they had intercepted radio messages between Mihailovitch and the nazis . . . Churchill even sent his son, Randolph, and Brig. Fitzroy McLean as liaison officers to Tito . . . But one night, a nazi airborne division swooped down on Tito's headquarters. He barely escaped. On that particular night, for the first time in months, both young Churchill and Brig. McLean were absent. Tito was suspicious — and furious.

Scene 3 — Headquarters: Some days later Tito flew to Bari, Italy, where the British had arranged a special Yugoslav headquarters. His plane was surrounded by Yugoslav troops. No British officials were allowed near . . . That night Tito, dining with British commander General Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, arrived with 12 husky Yugoslav guards carrying tommy-guns, lined them up around the dining room . . . "I say, Marshal," remarked Gen. Wilson. "Isn't this a most unusual procedure?" . . . "This," replied Tito, "is a most unusual war." . . . Still suspicious that the British were trying to kill him, Tito flew next day to Bucharest, conferred with Russian bigwigs, began his close tie-up with Moscow. He was through with the British . . . Doubtless the Russians now wish the British had done to Tito what Tito thought they were trying to do to him.

* * *

Wants Aid From U. S.

STATE department officials, secretly briefing army on the Tito-Kremlin row, said that Tito wanted aid under the Marshall plan. Here's hoping state department is right . . . However, its ambassador to Yugoslavia, Cavendish Cannon, supposed to keep Washington informed, quietly left Belgrade before the Tito break for one of those long diplomatic vacations, andthe state department is trying frantically to get him back.

However, it's true that Yugoslavia has leaned heavily on U. S. aid in the past, and most of its people have been strongly pro-American.

There's even one village in Southern Serbia, "Pearsonavatz," named for the head of a relief unit which rebuilt that section . . . You'll also find about every third Montenegrin you meet in the mountains has worked in the steel mills of Pittsburgh, Youngstown or Cleveland . . . Last thing the real people of Yugoslavia want is trouble with the USA, but rather our help and friendship . . . First break in the Iron Curtain undoubtedly has come.

Viewing the National Scene

Reminds of Side Show

By THOMAS L. STOKES

WASHINGTON—This giddy and dizzy season of our national political conventions, which as usual foam over with vaudeville froth, has seemed to provoke more than the ordinary amount of criticism of the way we select candidates for president and vice president.

Perhaps this is due in part to the war and its sobering effects, the still disturbed state of the world, and the increased emphasis on the processes of democracy and the need for them to produce real leadership in these critical times.

Significant is the cynicism encountered today about the curious antics at national political conventions. This was observed, for example, among young men and women of the war generation who got their first sight of the quadrennial performances at the Philadelphia Republican convention, some of them participating gaily, but with inward amusement, in what they sarcastically called "the spontaneous demonstrations" for candidates.

It was seen also among people who, for the first time, were able to see a convention virtually at first-hand through television.

From ironic comments about the circus side of conventions the conversation goes naturally to the institutions, themselves, as a means of selecting candidates for the highest office in a nation that has suddenly assumed leadership in the world.

Cynicism is evident there, too, in the fashion this year to speak of the "smoke-filled room" where the real decisions are made, usually at the price of some deal or other.

* * *

Changes Can Be Made.

WHILE the Republican convention nominated as its candidate for president the man who apparently, from the polls, was the first choice of the party's rank and file, and as vice president a man who also was clearly most satisfactory, it might have turned out otherwise.

Before it began there was the threat of a deadlock that might have resulted in a compromise, which would not have been welcome to the Republican party as a whole.

This threat was enhanced by the presence of so many unpledged or uninstructed delegates; that is, delegates who carried no sort of mandate from the people of their states whom they are supposed to represent. In other words, there were a great many of what might be called "maneuverable" delegates.

This will be true, too, of the Democratic national convention next week in Philadelphia.

We have an existing mechanism available to give the people, themselves, more voice in the choice of candidates for president. This is the state-wide presidential primary for selection of delegates and expression of preference for candidates for president.

The trouble is that this method now is very spottily used so that it does not permit expression by all our people.

Recently there has been increasing advocacy of extension of the presidential primary to all states and with a uniform system so that every acknowledged or recognized candidate would be entered automatically, and voters all over the country could express themselves in advance of the convention.

This, of course, would have to be done by state law in each case. The convention, then would be in a manner a ratifying body, though it would have discretion where the preference vote was not decisive.

The people would have more confidence in it and in its decisions as it would be more the creature of the people and more responsive because of direct election of delegates nationwide and direct expression of preference for candidates.

Some such reform would be helpful in eliminating the "smoke-filled room." Undoubtedly, too, the increased responsibility of conventions would make them more nearly into deliberative assemblies and less like circus side shows.

Farmer's Diary

He Was a Good Farmer

By CALVIN A. BYERS

IT HAS been quite a while since the old Dutch farmer drove his sleek black team and high wagon-box full of sacked wheat up beside the boxcar at the country railroad station. He was a broad-shouldered, heavy-set Mennonite with a graying beard, and he used to put his wide, hairy hands into his pockets and stand there smiling until a bevy of small boys had collected to watch what he might do next. The man's name was Johann. All the small boys had heard of him . . . he was local tradition.

"Now wait here until I have sold my wheat — all my wheat," he would say. "Watch my team carefully."

Then he would disappear into the station, where the agent would count out the money for his crop upon the heavy oaken counter. Johann would ask for silver — dollars and half dollars, that clanked heavily in his hand.

I do not know what portion of his money he got in silver, but I guess he counted the boys of his audience and managed accordingly.

"Boy, here is ein dollar — save it and add it to what you already have. If you have it still when I come with my wheat again, I will give you another. And don't waste time. Some wise man has said it's the stuff life is made of. It takes time to be prosperous and a good person . . . to learn to build a bridge and a house and a barn, and to make a farm rich and to keep it nailed down.

"Don't be satisfied with anything but the best. When you own the best, keep on holding to it and looking for something better. Take care of your farm and your farm will take care of you. Never ask a favor you would not be willing to do, yourself. Be kind to strangers. Feed everybody and every man's horse who visits you, as well as if they were your own. There—that is my speech. Now here is your dollar—come back and tell me how much you have earned next year, on wheat market day."

"That Johann —" the storekeeper said more than once, "he's a good farmer, that Johann. He makes for himself a crop of young friends, who can never forget him. He has fun with his wheat money, too, more than most!"

Yes, Johann was a good farmer. More than once he gave me a coin. I was one of the curious small boys who have never forgotten him . . . nor his homely sermons.

Timely Editorial

Good Returned for Evil.

Unstinting aid is being rushed to the Japanese areas devastated by earthquakes. This is in keeping with a long tradition of American generosity to the victims of Jap disasters; yet it recalls that three years ago this time a man-made disaster was being loaded aboard ship for eventual delivery to Hiroshima.

However, the point to be made here is merely that a few years ago we were expending limitless pain and treasure in the enterprise of killing Japanese, only to find ourselves now tenderly binding up the wounds. We are returning good for evil in the best Christian spirit, and reminding ourselves in the process of the ultimate fruitlessness of warfare.

Civilized peoples never win wars nowadays but only, if lucky, keep from losing them.—Detroit News.

Colleges Get GI Housing

WASHINGTON — (CP) — Colleges and universities which obtained temporary veterans' housing units from the government may acquire full ownership and control at no cost, Home Finance Administrater Raymond M Foley said today.

He said a bill signed by President Truman June 28 requires the government to transfer to requesting educational institutions any temporary housing project on land which they own or control.

All revenues received from operation of the housing projects also will go to the institutions under the law.

The act extends to Jan 1, 1950, the time in which such war housing must be removed, whether at educational institutions or elsewhere, Foley said. The previous date was July 25, 1949

Foley said colleges and universities may have this removal requirement waived if approved by the local governing body.

About 129,000 housing accommodations were provided for student veterans under this program, Foley said.

Ohioan Serving as U. S. Representative to Israel

NEW YORK—(AP)—Dr. James G. McDonald, first U. S. diplomatic representative to Israel, is a tall, white-haired ex-college professor widely known as an expert on international affairs with a sympathetic ear for Jewish problems.

During the years 1933-'35 McDonald was League of Nations high commissioner for German refugees. In that time, he says, he came to see Palestine "as a great place of refuge."

JAMES GROVER M'DONALD

He's afraid he'll miss the arrival of his first grandchild and he's a bit reluctant to give up his intensive campaign to improve his golf score. He recently got it down to 84.

"More recently," he adds, "I came to feel the Zionist ideology was right under the circumstances. I have a great admiration for the creative work of the Jews in Palestine. I have high hopes for Israel."

McDonald, who is 61 and stands six feet two inches, also was a member of the Anglo-American commission of inquiry on Palestine in 1946. The commission recommended that 100,000 Jews be allowed to migrate to the Holy Land. Britain rejected this.

Last year McDonald and Lady Astor happened to reach New York aboard the same ship when reporters' questions touched off an impromptu debate between them.

Lady Astor said the influx of Jews into Palestine was a "purely materialistic movement." She added: "I am not in favor of giving in to gangsters."

"It is one of the finest spiritual developments of our time," countered McDonald.

The head of the U. S. diplomatic mission to Israel was born in Coldwater, Ohio, educated at Indiana and Harvard universities and taught history and political science at both schools as well as at Radcliffe college. From 1919 to 1933, he was chairman of the board of the foreign policy association of New York.

After his assignment with the League of Nations, McDonald served two years on the editorial staff of the New York Times and the next two years as news analyst and adviser on postwar relations to the Blue network.

The McDonalds make their home in Bronxville, N. Y. They have two daughters. His new diplomatic assignment came as a surprise, he says, and was somewhat disappointing in two personal ways.
